Hikers Learn About Nature At Stage's Pond

About twenty "students" attended the first in a series of nature outings at Stage's Pond State Nature Preserve. Preserve Officer Mark Howes conducted the general interpretive hike around the area. He said the "area is alive" and county people are lucky to have such a spot in their own backyard.

During the nature's classroom tour, Howes pointed out several kinds of wild plants and trees and gave hints on how to distinguish some kinds from others. He also dispelled many of the tales that went with some plants.

For instance, the goldenrod doesn't cause hayfever, he told one allergy prone hiker. The sneezing and misery is caused from the ragweed plant.

While hiking over a path to the pond, Howes said this would be the last group to use the path. He said it disrupts the natural migration of wildlife.

Howes showed the group a duck blind that is used to observe the birds during the peak migration period. He said they usually appear during the latter part of October, through November. The small cabin is equipped with slots in the sides for observation.

The preserve officer said it is a good location to observe the birds because they are not scared away from the area. He invited everyone to use the blind and said if the gates are open, anyone is allowed in the area.

Stage's pond is 178 acres of natural area preserved by the Ohio Department of Natural Resources, Division of Natural Areas and Preserves. It has been affiliated with the state since 1974. Howes said the state tries to preserve as many areas as possible that still hold some of the characteristics from the pioneer days.

Howes has arranged three more classroom sessions, on the next three Saturdays. They are, "Birds of Prey" about native Ohio birds; Ecology of a Glacial Pond" about the make-up of a glacial pond and "Next Stop—Stage's Pond," about the North American waterfowl migration study. All programs begin at 10 a.m.

Howes is in charge of six nature areas in this area. The other ones are Shallenberger and Christmas Rocks, in Lancaster; and Conkles Hollow, Sheikh Hollow and Little Rocky Hollow located in Logan.

Howes said all the programs he plans run close to two hours. He suggests that interested persons wear suitable outdoor clothing and sturdy shoes, and bring binoculars, field guide books and cameras.

U.N. Sessions Begin Today

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. General Assembly begins its policy debate today; the Security Council starts work on the British-American plan for Rhodesia, and U.S. Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance launches two weeks of talks with visiting foreign ministers.

The assembly's annual policy debate will continue for three weeks and will bring chiefs of state, prime ministers and foreign ministers to the podium to outline the policies and concerns of each of the 149 member nations.

Foreign Minister Antonio Azeredo da Silveira of Brazil was to be the first speaker, followed by representatives of Canada, Venezuela, Spain, Nicaragua, Belgium, Costa Rica, Norway and Bolivia.

President Carter addresses the assembly on Oct. 4 and is expected to appeal for U.N. support for the British-American peace plan for Rhodesia. Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko speaks on Tuesday and China's Huang Hua speaks on Thursday.

Britain and the United States are asking the Security Council to authorize Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim to appoint a U.N. envoy to aid in arranging a cease-fire in the war between Rhodesia's white government and black nationalist guerrillas.

The British-American plan for Rhodesia, worked out by Ambassador Andrew Young and British Foreign Secretary David Owen, provides for transition to black majority rule by the end of 1978, a British resident commissioner to head the transition government and an election in which all adults could vote. A U.N. peacekeeping force would maintain order during the transition.

British Ambassador Ivor Richard, who asked for the Security Council session on Rhodesia, said the U.N. representative would be asked "to enter into negotiations before the transitional period with the British resident commissioner-designate and with all the parties with a view to establishing in detail the respective roles of all the forces in Rhodesia."

Israelis, Lebanese Approve Cease-Fire

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The Lebanese and Israeli governments and Palestinian guerrilla leader Yasir Arafat have tentatively approved a ceasefire in South Lebanon arranged by the United States. But a small radical guerrilla group rejected the truce.

The Israeli Defense Ministry in Tel Aviv said the truce agreement called for withdrawal of the Palestinian guerrillas from positions north of the border from which they could shell towns and settlements in northern Israel.

A spokesman for Arafat's high command said contacts were "under way to work out final details of a cease-fire that will preserve Lebanon's territorial integrity."

Sources close to the Lebanese government and Arafat spoke of a "partial" pullback by the guerrillas from advance positions along Israel's northern panhandle.

But a spokesman for Dr. George Habash's Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine said: "We shall abandon none of our positions in South Lebanon. We also shall allow no one to prevent us from striking at the Israeli enemy or existing in areas where we can strike from."

The Popular Front and its Iraqi-supported allies of the so-called Rejection Front have an estimated 300 guerrillas in the South while Arafat's Al Fatah and other units of the Palestine Liberation Organization have an estimated 5,000.

Informed sources said a force of 1,470 officers and soldiers of the reorganized Lebanese army has been formed to move into southern Lebanon to act as a buffer between the guerrillas and the right-wing Christian militiamen who have been battling them there.

Meanwhile, Israeli armored forces began withdrawing from south Lebanon. Reporters and photographers on the Israeli side were invited to watch the withdrawal although the Israeli government previously denied that it had any ground forces in Lebanon.

Israeli tanks, armored personnel carriers, a halftrack and several jeeps roared through a gate in the border fence near the Israeli town of Metulla early today. Some 40 reporters and photographers were on hand, "to cover the return of a force whose entry was heavily denied," one reporter commented.

A few minutes after the withdrawal started, a barrage of the Palestinians' Katyusha rockets hit two Israeli towns, Qiryat Shmonah, five miles south of the border, and Safad, 17 miles farther south. The Israeli military command said eight persons were wounded.

Sources at the Israeli Defense Ministry said the Syrian government joined in the negotiations and would try to persuade the Palestinians to observe the agreement.

Senate Leaders Seek Vote On Natural Gas Compromise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate leaders are trying to halt a filibuster on a bill regulating the price of natural gas in an effort to pave the way for a vote on a proposed compromise.

The natural gas issue is expected to tie up Senate floor action all week, despite the Senate efforts today to kill the filibuster by invoking debate-limiting cloture.

President Carter, who spent part of the weekend campaigning in Virginia for Democratic gubernatorial candidate Henry Howell, said at a rally in Norfolk, Va., that he might veto the natural gas bill if senators use it to remove controls from the price of natural gas.

"I hate to veto a bill that a Democratic Congress passes, but you can depend on it: I'll protect your interests when the bill comes to my desk," Carter said.

Meanwhile, hearings get under way today in both houses on the new Panama Canal treaty, giving the Carter administration its first major opportunity to try to persuade Congress to go along with the recently negotiated agreement.

Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd has formally asked the Senate to permit television and radio coverage of the Senate ratification debate when it gets under way next January.

It would be the first time for such coverage in the Senate chamber, although Senate committee hearings frequently have been broadcast.

Byrd told reporters over the weekend that if a vote were held on the treaty this year, it would be defeated. It might have a better chance by early next year, he said.

And the Senate Banking Committee is beginning hearings on whether federal regulation of banks should be overhauled, an outgrowth of the controversy over resigned budget director Bert Lance's personal banking transactions.

The vote of 60 senators is required to limit debate on the natural gas pricing bill, which is a major element of President Carter's energy program. If cloture is approved that would end the immediate threat of a filibuster and further debate on the bill would be limited to 100 hours.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, chairman of the Senate Energy Committee, is expected to push for Senate approval for a compromise between President Carter's proposal, which would keep federal controls on natural gas, and a competing industry plan, which would lift them.

Either measure would raise heating prices for companies and individuals using natural gas.

Byrd, who filed the cloture measure along with Jackson, Senate Republican Leader Howard Baker and 17 other senators, also said he sees a good chance of a compromise.

He said there is still a good chance Carter will get much of his energy program enacted, despite some recent setbacks in the Senate.

The filibuster has been led by a handful of liberal Democrats who don't want to see any relaxation of government price controls.

Anti-Inflation Policies Slowing Economic Growth

WASHINGTON (AP) — Anti-inflation policies of industrial nations have slowed economic growth and kept unemployment at recession-levels, and now must be "decisively corrected," the head of the International Monetary Fund said today.

Major reductions in unemployment are possible only if industrial nations pursue "markedly higher rates of economic expansion," Managing Director H. Johannes Witteveen said in remarks prepared for the opening of a week-long annual meeting of the IMF and World Bank.

He said the United States, Germany and Japan have an "international responsibility" to maintain adequate growth of their economies because what they do affects the rest of the world.

President Carter planned to address delegates from the IMF's 131 member nations later in the day. The disappointing growth of the world economy clearly is the topic most on the minds of the central bankers and finance ministers attending the meetings.

In his remarks, Witteveen said: "The pace of economic recovery in the industrial countries as a group has become so slow that it is adversely affecting employment and foreign trade ... and encouraging protectionism. This is a matter for serious concern."

It was the most serious expression yet by a major international figure over the recent worldwide economic slowdown. Statements by IMF officials usually are taken seriously since they often reflect collective judgment of key IMF members, including the United States.

Witteveen said he welcomed recent steps by Germany and Japan to stimulate their economies, but said they should "be prepared to take further measures of stimulus in the event that the performance of their domestic economies does not improve substantially."

Witteveen indicated satisfaction with economic growth in the United States so far this year, but said it is important to the rest of the world that U.S. growth be maintained "at a satisfactory rate."

In a separate speech, World Bank President Robert S. McNamara called on industrial nations to help accelerate growth in poor and developing nations with special efforts to channel the benefits to the very poor to "meet their basic human needs."

"Without these two complementary actions, the outlook for the poorest nations — nations that contain well over a billion human beings — is grim indeed," he said in prepared remarks.

He urged industrial nations to open their markets to goods manufactured in developing countries to make it possible for these countries to help themselves.

McNamara said loans and other aid to poor and developing nations by the World Bank and its affiliates will total just under $4 billion this year and should rise to $7.6 billion by 1983.

But he also said aid to the poorest nations of the world by major industrial powers has hardly increased in real terms — after discounting for inflation — during the past decade while real income of industrial nations rose by over 40 per cent in the same period.

Pope Paul VI Celebrates 80th Birthday

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI celebrated his 80th birthday today, and said the end of his life is approaching. But one of his close associates said he doubted the pontiff would abide by the retirement at-80 rule he has set for his cardinals.

Pope Paul told a crowd of 50,000 in St. Peter's Square Sunday that his birthday "preannounces that our end in the order of temporal life is approaching."

"This obliges us to great humility," the pontiff said. "We feel the fragility of being human to which we are subject as Christ was at the crucifix."

The fact that the pope has made retirement at 80 mandatory for cardinals and his increasingly frequent references to his advanced age have given rise to speculation that he might abdicate.

But Giovanni Cardinal Benelli, a close associate who is considered by many to be the pope's choice for his successor, said in a weekend interview:

"Knowing his way of thinking, I believe that such an hypothesis should be ruled out. Paul VI has a very high, exceptional sense of duty. He knows that he was called to this mission and that no one can exempt him."

Sergio Cardinal Pignedoli, the head of the Vatican's Secretariat for Non-Christians, reported that the pontiff is in good health except for arthritis of the legs and still a "formidable worker."

Birthday greetings poured in. U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim said: "The world owes His Holiness a debt of profound gratitude for his tireless work for peace and understanding among peoples of the world."

West German President Walter Scheel wrote: "In the 14 years of your pontificate and before, you have raised your voice on the burning questions of our time and shown the road to peace and unity for questing humanity."

President Tito of Yugoslavia and President Pal Losonczy of Hungary sent congratulations.

The dedication of a 12-ton bronze door for St. Peter's Basilica was the only special event announced for today. But Vatican observers said the pope probably would also be visited by relatives and perhaps there would be a birthday cake.

Defense Attorney Hopes To Put TV Violence On Trial

MIAMI (AP) — A defense attorney in a murder case hopes to put television violence on trial in defense of a 15-year-old boy he says is addicted to TV crime shows.

Attorney Ellis Rubin says his defense of Ronald Zamora in the trial beginning today will be an "absolutely unprecedented" portrayal of "television intoxication."

Despite a judge's warning that Rubin will not be allowed to make a general indictment of television, the attorney has contended that TV is pertinent to the case and has even subpoenaed Telly Savalas, star of the "Kojak" series.

In addition, television and still cameras will be in the courtroom as part of a one-year experiment ordered by the Florida Supreme Court two months ago.

Zamora and Darrell Agrella, 14, are accused of first-degree murder in the shooting death of Elinor Haggart, 83, on June 4 during a robbery at her Miami Beach home. Zamora has pleaded innocent by reason of insanity. Agrella, who will be tried separately, has pleaded innocent.

"An adolescent predisposed to emotional instability is very susceptible to the influence of television," Rubin has said. "Why do children love television? Why do sponsors spend millions of dollars a month advertising their products on television? And finally, why does television violence beget actual violence?"

Rubin is known for taking cases that attract attention. He helped Watergate burglar E. Howard Hunt gain parole and once filed a suit of his own to challenge Miami's homosexual rights ordinance.

The prosecution tried to restrict Zamora's defense by arguing that the only issue was whether he could distinguish right from wrong.

Rubin said Zamora was addicted to violent crime shows such as "Kojak," "Police Woman" and a film about mass murderer Charles Manson.

"His explanation of the crime was exactly what I had seen on a 'Kojak' episode a year earlier," Rubin said.

Savalas, who was served with a defense subpoena while on a visit here, said he is opposed to violence on television, and he contended there was never any such Kojak episode.

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — Rising interest rates and news of a near-record trade deficit last month pushed stock market prices lower today.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials dropped about a point and a half in early trading.

Losers took a 3-2 lead over gainers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts noted expectations that the Federal Reserve would continue tightening credit in its effort to restrain the growth of the money supply.

In addition, the government reported this morning that the U.S. trade deficit totalled $2.67 billion in August, for the second largest ever.

Today's prices included Norton Simon, off 1/8 at 20 1/2; U.S. Steel, down 1/2 at 28 1/2, and Tenneco, down 1/4 at 31.

On Friday the Dow Jones industrial average was unchanged at 839.14, closing out the week with a 17.67 loss.

Gainers and losers were evenly balanced in the daily tally on the NYSE.

Big Board volume came to 18.76 million shares, against 16.66 million on Thursday.

The NYSE's composite index was down .01 at 52.07.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index lost .17 to 117.13.

Local Man Charged

A Circleville man was uninjured following a 2:56 a.m. Sunday accident on Kingston Pike, three tenths of a mile north of Hayesville Road.

According to the report, Richard Swiggett, 23, of 453 Brown Street, was northbound on Kingston Pike when he lost control of his car. The vehicle traveled 96 feet off the right side of the roadway, striking and damaging 84 feet of fence, four metal posts, a telephone pole, a 10 inch wooden corner fencepost, and 100 feet of board fence owned by Donald R. Hildenbrand, 26686 Kingston Pike.

Swiggett was charged by Deputy Don Hamilton with driving a motor vehicle without an operator's license, and operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol.

County Jury Commissioner Heard All

PHOENIX (AP) — People who want to avoid serving on a Maricopa County jury are advised not to plead that they can't spare the time away from a lonely parakeet or a sick dog.

"I think I've heard them all," said Marjorie Jackman, the county's jury commissioner for 10 years.

Mrs. Jackman calls in 1,000 persons a week, who are picked by computer from voter lists and paid $12 a day for jury service.

Some are excused for pressing health, business or personal problems. Others just don't want to serve and often are the ones who offer the most "original" excuses, she said.

"I haven't taught my dogs how to answer the telephone yet," one candidate wrote the commissioner.

Another said her parakeets would die of loneliness if deprived of companionship.

"Jury duty is for everyone, so let everyone serve and then come back to me," wrote one man asking to be excused.

Vance Begins Sell Of Panama Canal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Cyrus Vance is opening the Carter administration campaign to sell the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on the wisdom of the new Panama Canal treaty.

The committee opened its hearings today amid repeated forecasts that the Senate would reject the pact if a vote were taken this fall.

Vance and the two principal negotiators, Sol Linowitz and Ellsworth Bunker, were among the first witnesses called to testify before the committee.

While the testimony of Vance and the two negotiators is considered important, committee staff aides said appearances by Secretary of Defense Harold Brown and Gen. George S. Brown, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, may be more critical.

The defense secretary and the military's top officer are scheduled to testify Tuesday.

Gen. Brown and the other joint chiefs say they firmly support the treaty, declaring that the canal, once considered vital to U.S. security in the Western Hemisphere, is rapidly losing its military importance.

Treaty critics, including some House members and senators, have questioned whether the joint chiefs really feel that way. Former members of the JCS have said the United States needs continued control of the waterway to ensure free passage of the U.S. Navy between the Pacific and Atlantic oceans.

Actually, there are two separate treaties under consideration, although they are considered indivisible. One treaty would turn full control of the canal over to Panama by the year 2000. The other gives the United States the right to ensure perpetual neutrality for the canal.

The pact calls for 9,000 U.S. troops now based in the Canal Zone to be withdrawn, and treaty critics on the Senate committee say they want to ask the Pentagon how the United States would be able to intervene militarily once the Canal Zone is surrendered to Panamanian authorities.

One tentative supporter of ratification, Sen. Clifford Case, R-N.J., a committee member, said it appears to him the canal cannot be defended militarily even if American troops were to remain.

In a statement released Sunday, Case said, "our military experts have said it would take up to 100,000 men to defend the canal and even then there is no way to guarantee against the possibility that someone might sneak in with explosives or lob artillery shells over the heads of American troops to hit the slide-prone narrow sections of the canal."

Polls, including one taken for The Associated Press, showed that, among those with an opinion, opposition is running 2-to-1 against Senate approval of the treaty.

Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd said over the weekend that if the Senate were to vote now that "would ensure rejection."

"Time is required to inform the American people because as long as the polls are extremely negative, it would be just as difficult to get two-thirds of the Senate to go along."

Retraining Is The Key

What happens to the American in his 40s or 50s who suddenly discovers the skills he has spent many years building are about to become obsolete? This is a concern which has existed almost from the beginning of the industrial revolution, but somehow becomes more pervasive as civilization progresses.

By some estimates, at least one-fourth the "long-term" unemployed are 45 years of age or older, but most training programs have no where near that proportion of the over-45 enrolled. Missing the opportunity for retraining may consign many older workers to a premature and almost penniless retirement.

But even if men and women in their late 40s or 50s are retrained, what then? The job market in many fields is tight.

A Class Trip

By JIM BISHOP

He never forgot railroading. It was an inner excitement, even after my old man became a policeman. He had run those big, swaying, thundering freight trains from Harrisburg to New York and he heaved coal into the fiery tongue of the steam locomotive.

Big John was old, retired, a lean lion when I asked him to ride a class train with me to Chicago. "The Twentieth Century." He nodded. Maybe. I had been invited to a book-and-author luncheon. What better company than Big John?

"I'll ask Mom." He did, she said, I reserved a drawing room. Fifty years earlier, he swung a lantern from a long freight, but he had never seen a long red rug leading down a ramp to gleaming Pullmans.

The 20th Century snaked out of Grand Central and crept with ease out of the tunnel and past the flats of Harlem and fast and flat along the edge of the Hudson River. It was a dream ride for a railroader. Big John ate his steak and had two ryes and ginger for dessert.

The tables had flowers and vases. Far in front, he heard the lonesome wail of the whistle. We played euchre in the observation car. The train was halfway to Buffalo when he found he forgot his sleeping pill. Two more ryes. To hell with the ginger ale.

Big John was not a drunk. But when he felt nervous, he was a serious sinner. I left a small light on. At 4 a.m., he said "I can't sleep. You know why? I'm running this goddam train, that's why." He rang for the porter. The man couldn't get him a drink.

In the morning, he had three for breakfast. "Where am I?" he said, looking out the window. "That's what I've been wondering," I said. We took a cab to a big hotel. The lobby was crawling with writers and critics. We got into a big room and the maid was making a bed.

"Be a good girl," he said, peeling a twenty. "Get me a bottle of rye and keep the change." I snatched the money. It was too late to acknowledge that he had never been this far from home, that he was too nervous to enjoy a "class" train, that he had no interest in authors and speeches and critics.

Before lunch, two priests introduced themselves and took him to a cocktail bar. Big John began to smile again. A lady critic said, "We wouldn't think of putting Big John at a table. He has a place on the dias."

That was dandy. He sat breathing like a whounded rhino, but at hundreds of white table-cloths. Luncheon was served. My old man handed the fruit cup back to the waiter and asked, clearly and loudly, for a drink.

The speeches were on. I was second. As I was introduced, with all the improper and unearned superlatives, I looked down at dad and burst into laughter. I couldn't help it. His fists were cupped over a dinner dish and his chin was on his knuckles.

I sailed into my contribution, trying not to see him out of the perimeter of my eyes. I heard him say, "What kind of place has no bathroom?" Hundreds of eyes turned from me to him.

He rocked back from his chair and his foot got caught between the dais and the wall. Two men helped him get his foot back. He stepped down and walked through the lanes of tables smiling down at one and all.

I had lost the audience. The people were entranced. He disappeared out a back door. A few minutes later he appeared on a balcony, still looking for the bathroom. He punched at the mirrored doors. They were locked.

In the middle of a touching story about Jesus, I grabbed the lectern and sobbed with laughter. Nobody noticed. Eight hundred faces were turned backward, watching Big John clutching at locked doors.

NEW YORK (AP) — Dow Chemical U.S.A. conducted a survey among its many units and concluded that in 1975 it spent $147 million to comply with federal laws and regulations, or five cents for every dollar of sales.

Of that, said James Hanes, vice president and general counsel, only $87 million could be termed necessary and appropriate. Of the remainder, $50 million was deemed excessive and $10 million questionable or worse.

Dow is one of the very few companies that conducted a survey of all its regulatory expenditures, but it now suggests other companies do the same, in the name of common sense and reducing inflation.

"It was money that simply fueled inflation," said Hanes of the needless expenditures. "It could have been employed productively elsewhere by Dow and the ultimate victims, the consumers."

The numbers become staggering when multiplied by the thousands of companies throughout the nation, he observed, and perhaps what might be termed shocking in terms of the jobs that never were created because the money was wasted.

Dow acted after regulatory matters repeatedly dominated its annual management meetings. Hanes visited with his Washington officials and was told he had to have hard numbers. "Everyone was unhappy," he said, "but nobody had the specifics."

He and others then devised a questionnaire to be sent to 119 company units, mainly those that had independent budgets. When managers declared certain regulations unnecessary, they were asked to supply an explanation.

The instances of waste sometimes being a member of the gray haired brigade doesn't enhance one's chances with many employers.

Or does it? Years of work experience combined with recent retraining could give the over-45 group an advantage younger competitors cannot meet. But retraining remains the key to overcoming obsolescence at any age.

"I don't know what they pay you, but frankly, I wouldn't give you a nickel to shut up," I bought a pair of drinks. In the morning, the Century was gliding down past Harmon, slipping and shaking through the yards.

He was shaving. I was laughing. "Well," I said, "we won't be invited back to Chicago." He snarled through the lather. "Who needs it?" Then he turned to grin at me. I knew what was coming.

"When we get home," he said with those ruby eyes, "don't forget to tell your mother we had a wonderful time. A wonderful time. And that's all..."

were tragic, amusing, illogical, but in other instances seemingly reasonable until examined.

The most bureaucratically abused situation involved toxic substances which, if spilled, required the company to file a report with the Environmental Protection Agency. For a period of time the company filed no reports.

Eventually it received a letter asking why it had made no submissions. Hanes said he replied that there were no spills to report. "Why?" he was asked, with the inference being that some explanation would have to be given.

Much waste is less obvious, the company found. The overlapping of the Food and Drug Administration, EPA and the Occupational Safety and Health Administration often results in different sets of regulations dealing with one industrial problem.

"Politically, they can't rest without doing something," said Hanes. The bureaucracy, he said, is competitive, with itself.

The regulatory problems aren't limited to the expenditure of money for nonproductive ends or to violations of "good scientific, manufacturing, business or personnel practices," as the Dow measuring stick is calibrated.

Also involved, said Hanes, is the loss of proprietary information, and the weakening of American companies in international trade.

He cited the instance of the Japanese firm that sought to purchase a Dow technique for removing a contaminant from a certain chemical. Suddenly, negotiations stopped; the Japanese firm had obtained the information from the government under the Freedom of Information Act.

Dows own figures indicate that the major part of its expenditures on regulatory matters are necessary and appropriate, but it thinks both government and industry can cooperate in fighting waste.

One part of its counterattack involves an agreement with the Energy Research and Development Administration in which the company was permitted to police and monitor its own compliance with regulations — at huge savings.

Efforts to develop similar programs, one with OSHA, are under way. Involved in the OSHA-union-management program that is being considered would be safety inspection and corrective actions, with the regulatory agency overseeing but not as actively involved in details.

Such innovations, Hanes is convinced, result in "lower costs and less anguish," but Dow's efforts include a more basic thrust, that of educating and encouraging employees to be active in the political process.

Employees are encouraged to seek office, to be familiar with candidates and their promises and to know about regulations and requirements that might impinge on their paychecks and maybe their very jobs.

"Grass roots interest and involvement is the only solution," said Hanes. "The rest is treating symptoms."

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

The United Cerebral Palsy of New York City is a voluntary agency devoted entirely to the problems and the needs of cerebral palsy victims.

After a quarter of a century of devotion to cerebral palsy victims, a new complex of buildings is being established in Brooklyn, N.Y. It encompasses the most modern concepts of rehabilitation for multi-handicapped children and adults.

Besides physical rehabilitation, educational programs will concentrate on the preschool child, the child of school age who cannot be accommodated in public school programs, and teenagers and adults who wish to continue their education, and to pursue social and vocational activities.

Many medical, scientific and psychological disciplines are coordinating their talents to give these handicapped persons the greatest potential for being integrated into society as productive, happy people.

John Miller, president of the Hearst Foundation, after inspecting the Brooklyn Rehabilitation Campus for Cerebral Palsy, was enormously impressed by the planned service programs aimed at the total rehabilitation of the courageous victims.

Milton Merrill Drops By Bank On Motorcycle

ELGIN, Ill. (AP) — Policeman Milton Merrill and his bank were involved in a title dispute over his motorcycle, so he dropped by to discuss the matter.

The First National Bank, however, wasn't too happy when he tried to drive the motorcycle up the stairs to the loan office on the second floor.

Merrill was charged with disorderly conduct and criminal damage to property, but he was acquitted Friday by Circuit Court Judge Richard Weiler.

Merrill was innocent of criminal damage to property because there was no evidence of permanent damage to the walls and stairway, Weiler held. He dismissed the disorderly conduct charge, saying there was no testimony that patrons had been alarmed during the Sept. 2 incident.

No Cure For High Blood Pressure

WASHINGTON (AP) — People are confused about the cure for high blood pressure, says Graham Ward, director of the National High Blood Pressure Education Program.

Ward explains that this is because there isn't any cure for most high blood pressure. Once high blood pressure, or hypertension, is brought under control, treatment must be continued to keep it under control, Ward says.

I have been told that eating licorice is an excellent way to help break the smoking habit. I don't want to take it in candy form because I don't want to put on weight. Can licorice be taken in pill form to serve the same purpose?

Mrs. G.S., Ohio.

Dear Mrs. S.:

Licorice comes from the dried root of glycyrrhiza glabra. For years, it has been used for a variety of medical purposes. Sometimes it is used as an expectorant, and even as a laxative.

Many people have found that the taste of licorice is effective in reducing the need for a cigarette. It seems to be particularly helpful after drinking coffee, when the desire for a cigarette is at a peak.

Recently, however, it has been found that large quantities of licorice in any form may produce odd symptoms. Nausea, Palpitation, headaches and extreme fatigue are sometimes noted in "licorice addicts."

It has also been found the adrenal gland, which produces a special hormone, may be overstimulated by too much licorice.

This should be kept in mind by those using licorice to break the smoking habit and also for people who eat licorice just because they like it.

To take licorice in pill form would serve no purpose because it is the taste of licorice in the mouth that can act as a deterrent to smoking.

The new line of Edison irons were on sale at the Ohio Utilities Company 108 N. Court St., at $4.50. The electric iron weighed only six pounds and made the afternoon ironing for housewives in Circleville a "pleasure."

A 123 acre tract of land with a seven room frame dwelling, a metal roof barn, a corn crib, and other outside buildings, running water and good fences sold for $5,000.

The Farm Bureau office acquired a new soil testing outfit. The new testing outfit was to be used to test the acid content in the soil and how much time it would take to correct the acid condition.

Noecker - Motor Company, Circleville's Chevrolet dealer, held a reduced price sale on the latest models. The Roadster sold for $525, the Touring at $325, and a four passenger coup for $810.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

The United Cerebral Palsy of New York City is a voluntary agency devoted entirely to the problems and the needs of cerebral palsy victims.

After a quarter of a century of devotion to cerebral palsy victims, a new complex of buildings is being established in Brooklyn, N.Y. It encompasses the most modern concepts of rehabilitation for multi-handicapped children and adults.

Besides physical rehabilitation, educational programs will concentrate on the preschool child, the child of school age who cannot be accommodated in public school programs, and teenagers and adults who wish to continue their education, and to pursue social and vocational activities.

Many medical, scientific and psychological disciplines are coordinating their talents to give these handicapped persons the greatest potential for being integrated into society as productive, happy people.

John Miller, president of the Hearst Foundation, after inspecting the Brooklyn Rehabilitation Campus for Cerebral Palsy, was enormously impressed by the planned service programs aimed at the total rehabilitation of the courageous victims of cerebral palsy.

I have been told that eating licorice is an excellent way to help break the smoking habit. I don't want to take it in candy form because I don't want to put on weight. Can licorice be taken in pill form to serve the same purpose?

Mrs. G.S., Ohio.

Licorice comes from the dried root of glycyrrhiza glabra. For years, it has been used for a variety of medical purposes. Sometimes it is used as an expectorant, and even as a laxative.

Many people have found that the taste of licorice is effective in reducing the need for a cigarette. It seems to be particularly helpful after drinking coffee, when the desire for a cigarette is at a peak.

Recently, however, it has been found that large quantities of licorice in any form may produce odd symptoms. Nausea, Palpitation, headaches and extreme fatigue are sometimes noted in "licorice addicts."

It has also been found the adrenal gland, which produces a special hormone, may be overstimulated by too much licorice.

This should be kept in mind by those using licorice to break the smoking habit and also for people who eat licorice just because they like it.

To take licorice in pill form would serve no purpose because it is the taste of licorice in the mouth that can act as a deterrent to smoking.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

If a civil right cost a ha'penny, Dr. Samuel Johnson once said, few people would buy.

As usual, Dr. Johnson had a point. We simply do not think of civil rights as having a value that can be measured in dollars and cents. How could anybody put a price tag on freedom of speech? How could we figure out a reasonable fee for the right to vote?

Yet, civil rights are anything but free. They do have a price. But the price is payable in a different sort of coin. For example:

We pay for the right of habeas corpus by letting some villains go free.

We pay for the right of jury trial and the right to appeal a verdict by slowing the pace and raising the cost of justice.

We pay for protection against unreasonable search and seizure by making it harder to fight crime, and we pay for protection against job discrimination by making it harder to do business.

Are we buying our civil rights at a fair price? The answer is never final. In fact, haggling over how much civil rights are worth is the very essence of our political process.

Consequently, the law deals with civil rights in relative terms. It says (in Aldous Huxley's words):

"There is no such thing as 'natural rights'; there are only adjustments of conflicting claims."

Or, in the homelier language of an old legal aphorism:

"Your right to swing your fist ends where my nose begins."

There are worse ways to describe what freedom is all about.

Scientists To Seek Solution To Discourage Blackbirds

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio scientists are trying to discourage blackbirds from returning to nighttime roosting places.

Many different kinds of blackbird control measures have been tried, according to T.W. Townsend, wildlife specialist for the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center, ranging from scaring devices to repellent and birth control chemicals. But the redwinged blackbird and its relatives, the grackle and cowbird, continue to raid grain fields and orchards, he said.

Townsend believes there may be a correlation between the vegetation which makes up the birds' evening roosts and the sites chosen by the birds.

He and center graduate research associate R.N. Micacchion are monitoring marsh areas, stands of trees and combinations of the two to determine what kinds of vegetation may draw the birds to roost.

Once they determine what kinds of areas the birds prefer, they will embark on next year's project—figuring out what will discourage the birds from returning.

Customer, Girl Clerk Do Checks

DALLAS (AP) — While customers are checking out the girl on the cover of Esquire magazine, the girl on the cover is checking them out.

"People buy that magazine all the time," says Debbie Wagener, Dallas Cowboy cheerleader and supermarket checkout girl.

"No one ever realizes it's me. They look me straight in the eye and talk about the magazine cover and never know it's me."

But the 20-year-old checker says there's a pretty good reason for the lack of recognition.

On the magazine cover she's attired in the famous silver lame Cowboy jacket, blue halter top and hot pants.

Behind checkout stand No. 5, however, she's in a store-issued red plaid smock and bluejeans.

Debbie hopes the $15-a-game cheerleading job will help launch a modeling career.

Lillian Carter Awarded Peace Prize

NEW YORK (AP) — Lillian Carter has become the first woman ever awarded the Synagogue Council of America's "Covenant of Peace" prize.

The President's mother received the award Sunday for "distinguished contributions to the furtherance of international understanding, justice and peace."

In addition to a bronze statue, there is an $18,000 cash award. "Miss Lillian," as she is known in her home town of Plains, Ga., said she would donate the money to several charities.

The council cited Mrs. Carter for the rearing of four children, a career as a registered nurse and two years in India with the Peace Corps.

"Throughout her life she has taught me and the other members of our family by example and precept, the importance of living in a manner which carries out the teachings of our Bible and the Judaic Christian tradition," Carter said in a telegram to the council.

McKays To Show Jerseys At NALE

Donald R. McKay and family of Mt. Sterling, Ohio will be exhibiting four head of Jersey cattle at the North American Livestock Exposition in Louisville, November 5-19, officials of the show reported recently. Doug McKay will be exhibiting one.

Mr. McKay and his family will be competing against other breeders from all over the United States and Canada for premiums and awards which total some $200,000. The Exposition, which is one of the largest such livestock shows in the nation, is expected to feature more than 10,000 head of top-quality beef cattle, dairy cattle, sheep, swine and quarter horses.

The event features a total of 11 open beef shows, 5 open dairy shows, 12 open sheep shows, and junior shows for beef, dairy and sheep, an open steer show, a pen of five feeder calf show and sale, a market lamb show, an open swine show for singles and truckloads of market hogs, plus a ladies lead division for both junior and seniors. In addition, there will be a total of 18 sales as well as a four day open quarter horse show.

The commercial exhibit area will be open daily in the East Wing and will include such exhibits as western clothing, livestock grooming supplies, livestock trailers and handling equipment, turquoise dealers, and even a fruit stand and cheese booth.

But the redwinged blackbird and its relatives, the grackle and cowbird, continue to raid grain fields and orchards, he said.

Townsend believes there may be a correlation between the vegetation which makes up the birds' evening roosts and the sites chosen by the birds.

He and center graduate research associate R.N. Micacchion are monitoring marsh areas, stands of trees and combinations of the two to determine what kinds of vegetation may draw the birds to roost.

Once they determine what kinds of areas the birds prefer, they will embark on next year's project—figuring out what will discourage the birds from returning.

Customer, Girl Clerk Do Checks

DALLAS (AP) — While customers are checking out the girl on the cover of Esquire magazine, the girl on the cover is checking them out.

"People buy that magazine all the time," says Debbie Wagener, Dallas Cowboy cheerleader and supermarket checkout girl.

"No one ever realizes it's me. They look me straight in the eye and talk about the magazine cover and never know it's me."

But the 20-year-old checker says there's a pretty good reason for the lack of recognition.

On the magazine cover she's attired in the famous silver lame Cowboy jacket, blue halter top and hot pants.

Behind checkout stand No. 5, however, she's in a store-issued red plaid smock and blue jeans.

Debbie hopes the $15-a-game cheerleading job will help launch a modeling career.

Lillian Carter Awarded Peace Prize

NEW YORK (AP) — Lillian Carter has become the first woman ever awarded the Synagogue Council of America's "Covenant of Peace" prize.

The President's mother received the award Sunday for "distinguished contributions to the furtherance of international understanding, justice and peace."

In addition to a bronze statue, there is an $18,000 cash award. "Miss Lillian," as she is known in her home town of Plains, Ga., said she would donate the money to several charities.

The council cited Mrs. Carter for the rearing of four children, a career as a registered nurse and two years in India with the Peace Corps.

"Throughout her life she has taught me and the other members of our family by example and precept, the importance of living in a manner which carries out the teachings of our Bible and the Judaic Christian tradition," Carter said in a telegram to the council.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Prefer Calif. Single To New York Married

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 24-year-old California woman who fell in love with a terrific eligible bachelor while vacationing in New York.

We're planning a November wedding, but every time I think of living in New York I break down in tears. I hate New York! I was born and raised in California, and all my friends and family live here.

We have to live in New York because my fiance is a physician and his father (also a physician) is retiring and leaving him a wonderful established practice.

I've asked my fiance to consider taking the California Medical Board so he can practice here, but he says it's foolish to start all over again in California when he has a successful ready-made practice in New York. I know he's right. But as much as I love him, I know I'll be miserable in New York.

Please answer soon as time is running out.

TORN

DEAR TORN: If you "know" you'll be miserable in New York, you will be. And he'll be miserable, knowing that you're miserable, which will make for a miserable marriage.

Unless you go to New York determined to build a new and happy life, for your sake and his, call the wedding off and stay in California.

DEAR ABBY: I am involved with a older married man with whom I have a unique relationship. He never questions me about other men, and I never question him about his wife-although I admit, I'm curious.

He pursued me, I didn't pursue him, and from the very beginning he told me he was a "happily married man."

My question: Why would a "happily married man" want to have an affair? Or is the affair a sign that something is wrong with his marriage?

CURIOUS

DEAR CURIOUS: It's possible for a man who is sufficiently satisfied with his marriage to seek supplementary excitement just for the fun of it.

I would translate his statement into the following: "I enjoy fooling around with you, but don't get any crazy ideas about marriage, because I'm perfectly happy with things the way they are."

DEAR ABBY: For years I have been driving four neighbor children and my daughter to school every day. I decided not to join a car pool because I figure that as long as I am driving anyway, I may as well take a car-full. Incidentally, we have a nice new car with six seat belts, and I am as dependable as a clock.

We've lived in this neighborhood for many years and I know all the parents, but I don't see them socially. Of course all the mothers know that I chauffeur their children every morning because I pick them up at their doors.

Now I don't expect a medal, but when I meet one of the mothers in the market or at PTA, not ONE mother has ever said "thank you" to me.

If parents are so thoughtless about showing their appreciation, is it any wonder their kids think the world owes them a living?

This has been on my mind for a long time. Please print this to wake up a few mothers. But don't use my name or location.

IRRITATED

DEAR IRRITATED: Names and locations are unnecessary. The guilty ones know who they are.

Children, lunatics and drunks cannot make valid contracts.

Personals

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Prefer Calif. Single To New York Married

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 24-year-old California woman who fell in love with a terrific eligible bachelor while vacationing in New York.

We're planning a November wedding, but every time I think of living in New York I break down in tears. I hate New York! I was born and raised in California, and all my friends and family live here.

We have to live in New York because my fiance is a physician and his father (also a physician) is retiring and leaving him a wonderful established practice.

I've asked my fiance to consider taking the California Medical Board so he can practice here, but he says it's foolish to start all over again in California when he has a successful ready-made practice in New York. I know he's right. But as much as I love him, I know I'll be miserable in New York.

Please answer soon as time is running out.

TORN

DEAR TORN: If you "know" you'll be miserable in New York, you will be. And he'll be miserable, knowing that you're miserable, which will make for a miserable marriage.

Unless you go to New York determined to build a new and happy life, for your sake and his, call the wedding off and stay in California.

DEAR ABBY: I am involved with a older married man with whom I have a unique relationship. He never questions me about other men, and I never question him about his wife-although I admit, I'm curious.

He pursued me, I didn't pursue him, and from the very beginning he told me he was a "happily married man."

My question: Why would a "happily married man" want to have an affair? Or is the affair a sign that something is wrong with his marriage?

CURIOUS

DEAR CURIOUS: It's possible for a man who is sufficiently satisfied with his marriage to seek supplementary excitement just for the fun of it.

I would translate his statement into the following: "I enjoy fooling around with you, but don't get any crazy ideas about marriage, because I'm perfectly happy with things the way they are."

DEAR ABBY: For years I have been driving four neighbor children and my daughter to school every day. I decided not to join a car pool because I figure that as long as I am driving anyway, I may as well take a car-full. Incidentally, we have a nice new car with six seat belts, and I am as dependable as a clock.

We've lived in this neighborhood for many years and I know all the parents, but I don't see them socially. Of course all the mothers know that I chauffeur their children every morning because I pick them up at their doors.

Now I don't expect a medal, but when I meet one of the mothers in the market or at PTA, not ONE mother has ever said "thank you" to me.

If parents are so thoughtless about showing their appreciation, is it any wonder their kids think the world owes them a living?

This has been on my mind for a long time. Please print this to wake up a few mothers. But don't use my name or location.

IRRITATED

DEAR IRRITATED: Names and locations are unnecessary. The guilty ones know who they are.

Children, lunatics and drunks cannot make valid contracts.

Burglar Ordered To Pay Insurance For Three Years

KENNEWICK, Wash. (AP) — Benton-Franklin County Superior Court Judge Albert Yencopal, noted for innovative sentencing, has ordered a burglar to pay the burglary and theft insurance of a restaurant.

Yencopal, who ordered Allen Bender, 22, to pay the approximately $200-a-year insurance costs for three years, said he felt it was time burglars realized their acts drive up business costs.

Bender, a former fireman, pleaded guilty Aug. 16 to second-degree burglary in the theft of a safe containing $390 from the Steak-Out Restaurant. The money was recovered, but the safe was damaged, police said.

Solon Calls For Truce In Two-City Arguments

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A state lawmaker has called for a truce in a "war of words" between the cities of Cleveland and Cincinnati and suggested that they join as sister cities.

Rep. William L. Mallory, DCincinnati, wrote Cincinnati Mayor Tom Luken and Cleveland Council President George Forbes what he insisted was "a letter in a serious vein" proposing a peace parlay in Columbus next month.

The "war" has been waged by newspaper columnists, comparing the relative merits of their cities and sniping at the shortcomings of respective rivals.

"We in Ohio are already facing stiff competition from other states in our attempts to keep a reasonable economic climate for the citizens of Ohio," Mallory said. "We can not allow ourselves to be drawn into a nowin war."

In addition to the sister city idea and a "cultural exchange program," Mallory wants officials from the two cities to sign a mutual assistance pact, guaranteeing a free flow of information on shared urban problems.

Mallory has planned the meeting for Oct. 11 in the office of Ohio House Speaker Vern Riffe at the Statehouse — "neutral turf."

Rep. A.G. Lancione, D-99 Bellaire, has decided that Ohio should change its official state flower from the carnation, a "florists' flower," to the trillium, a wildflower that "symbolizes the awakening of spring."

Lancione introduced a bill to make the change to the so-called wake robin, three-petaled flower. He also put in a companion measure to protect endangered species of Ohio wildflowers.

Whereas a Belmont County lawmaker, heretofore silent on the issue, wants consumer agreements, leases and warranties to be written in understandable language, he has introduced a bill to do the same and wants it passed forthwith.

"Not everyone is an attorney," said Rep. A.G. Lancione, "but you need to be one to understand some of the leases I've seen." It's not a personal problem for Lancione, by the way, since he is an attorney.

His bill would mandate simplified language, provide a mechanism for a consumer to recover as much as $50 when an agreement cannot be deciphered, and allow lawsuits to be filed if any actual damages resulted.

"I hope that I can keep the language of the bill simple as it moves through the legislative process and faces possible amendments," said Lancione.

Legislative Report

By MYRL SHOEMAKER,
State Representative
88th House District

The Ohio General Assembly began a two-week session this week with passage in the House of the capital improvements appropriation bill, House Bill 618. The vote was 81 to 12. The Senate is scheduled to approve the measure next week.

The bill, which I introduced last May and was reviewed during the summer by the Finance Committee, appropriates $517 million for capital improvements throughout the state for the next two years. The largest appropriations include $211 million for mental health and mental retardation projects, $203 million for higher education facilities, and $65 million for Department of Natural Resources' projects. Of the money budgeted, $29 million is general revenue fund money and most of the balance is financed by revenue bonds.

In other House floor action this week, legislation was approved, 64-28, to ensure that the state recognizes hyphenated or any other types of surnames. The bill, House Bill 593 authored by Representative David Hartley of Springfield, would allow parents to name their children as they choose.

While Ohio law does not prohibit this practice, the Division of Vital Statistics requires the father's surname to be used as the child's surname on the child's birth certificate (except in the case of an illegitimate child). The division, for instance, will not accept a hyphenated surname that is a combination of the parents' surnames. The child's surname can, under present law, be changed in court, however.

House Bill 593 essentially recognizes the common law right to choose any name at birth and at marriage.

In the Senate, legislation was passed requiring the 47 Ohio counties that do not have bureau of support agencies to establish them to enforce court-ordered child support payments. The bureau could be established jointly with other counties or separately. The bureaus would determine if support payments are in arrears and the county prosecutor would be required to initiate court action to recover any back payments. The bill would also allow child support payments to be deducted from a worker's paycheck.

The child support bill, Senate Bill 87, is sponsored by Toledo Senator Marigene Valiquette. The measure, after its 26 to 6 approval in the Senate, will be considered in the House.

ODMHR Said To Be Excluding Mental Patients From Jobs

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — About 6,000 Ohio mental patients have been excluded from paying jobs they are competent to handle, an attorney for the American Civil Liberties Union of Ohio contends.

Cleveland attorney Gordon Beggs has filed an administrative complaint with the civil rights division of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare asking that the Ohio Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation be ordered to allow mental patients eligibility for institutional jobs.

The complaint was filed on behalf of Lawrence McKee, 63, a resident of Western Reserve Psychiatric Hospital

Youngstown Man Says He Printed Phony Money

CLEVELAND (AP) — David Lee Clark, 28, of Youngstown, has pleaded guilty in U.S. District Court to printing about $500,000 worth of counterfeit $20 bills.

The Secret Service said at least 2,000 of the phony bills Clark printed earlier this year have turned up in nine states.

Federal authorities said three associates of Clark have been convicted and sentenced. Another associate, George Paulin of Youngstown, was shot to death last May.

Judge Thomas D. Lambros delayed sentencing of Clark pending a probation department report.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Amidst national reports of declining college entrance examination scores, the Ohio Department of Education reports that students in this state have consistently scored higher than the national average.

Apathy Contributed To Ohio Man's Death

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Police say apathy was the reason a fatally wounded Ohio man lay unattended for almost an hour on a heavily traveled Memphis sidewalk, but a community worker says fear was a more likely cause.

Police say numerous people saw Robert Yost, 18, a carnival worker from Columbus, Ohio, as he lay on the broken sidewalk with a bullet wound in his chest. Residents of the area later said they heard someone groaning after a shot was fired.

But nobody called police until it was too late. Yost, who was white, died on a street corner in the predominantly black Orange Mound section.

Jojoba Oil May Be Alternative To Whale Oil

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Researchers here are analyzing oil from the fruit of the jojoba shrub as an alternative to sperm whale oil.

Recent restrictions on the killing of sperm whales have increased interest in substituting jojoba oil as an ingredient for products using whale oil, such as high-performance hydraulic fluids, cosmetics, pharmaceuticals and leather dressings.

Scientists at Battelle Columbus Laboratories have begun a five-month technical and economic analysis program to provide data on the commercial availability of jojoba oil.

The substance has been known about for 200 years. The shrub is native to the Sonoran desert region in Arizona, California and northwestern Mexico.

commander of the Memphis Police Department's homicide squad. "It happens in New York, it happens in Memphis and it happens in Oxford, Miss."

Smith said apathy was not a problem unique to the black community. "No more so than in the white," he said.

A 21-year-old man surrendered to police the day after the shooting and told officers he had fought with Yost.

"He said that Yost was carrying the pistol and that Yost pulled it on him and that they had fought over the gun," Smith said.

Smith refused to speculate whether Yost might have lived if he had gotten help. "That's a question only God can answer," he said.

Christopher Bonds, director of the Orange Mound Community Action Agency, partially agrees with Smith.

"I'm sure apathy has a part in what happened the other night," Bonds said, "but I think that more than that it was probably fear."

"It's dark ... somebody goes to the aid of someone who appears to be in trouble only to find themselves confronting a gun."

"While everybody would want to help somebody that is in trouble, they are just afraid to do it, simply because there have been too many incidents of people rising up and robbing them."

The Orange Mound neighborhood is a mixture of neat, single-family dwellings and public housing developments. It has produced athletes, businessmen and leaders. One resident became one of the city's first black judges.

Residents of the area where Yost was found are reluctant to discuss the slaying and the reasons no one acted.

ODMHR Said To Be Excluding Mental Patients From Jobs

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — About 6,000 Ohio mental patients have been excluded from paying jobs they are competent to handle, an attorney for the American Civil Liberties Union of Ohio contends.

Cleveland attorney Gordon Beggs has filed an administrative complaint with the civil rights division of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare asking that the Ohio Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation be ordered to allow mental patients eligibility for institutional jobs.

The complaint was filed on behalf of Lawrence McKee, 63, a resident of Western Reserve Psychiatric Hospital

Dissident Teamsters Call For Union Reforms

CLEVELAND (AP) — Denouncing corrupt activities by "Teamster big shots" who do the bidding of union president Frank E. Fitzsimmons, 350 dissident Teamsters ended a two-day convention Sunday by calling for union reforms.

Members of the year-old Teamsters for a Democratic Union said they want membership control of Teamster pension funds, lowered salaries for union officials, direct election of union officers and pension trustees and an end to discrimination against women and blacks.

"They (the leadership) won't give up easily," said Peter J. Camarata of Detroit, one of the 15 persons elected to the group's national steering committee. "They won't walk away from their big salaries and their power."

The dissidents have vowed to challenge Fitzsimmons wherever Youngstown Man Says He Printed Phony Money

CLEVELAND (AP) — David Lee Clark, 28, of Youngstown, has pleaded guilty in U.S. District Court to printing about $500,000 worth of counterfeit $20 bills.

The Secret Service said at least 2,000 of the phony bills Clark printed earlier this year have turned up in nine states.

Federal authorities said three associates of Clark have been convicted and sentenced. Another associate, George Paulin of Youngstown, was shot to death last May.

Judge Thomas D. Lambros delayed sentencing of Clark pending a probation department report.

ODE Reports Ohio Scores Beat Average

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Amidst national reports of declining college entrance examination scores, the Ohio Department of Education reports that students in this state have consistently scored higher than the national average.

Results for the academic year of 1976-77 reveal a composite score of 19.1 for Ohioans on the American College Testing Program examination. The national average was 18.4.

"The test results represent the seventh consecutive year that Ohio students surpassed the national average," State School Supt. Franklin B. Walter said.

The metric equivalent of an acre is 405 hectares, 4047 square meters.

Apathy Contributed To Ohio Man's Death

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Police say apathy was the reason a fatally wounded Ohio man lay unattended for almost an hour on a heavily traveled Memphis sidewalk, but a community worker says fear was a more likely cause.

Police say numerous people saw Robert Yost, 18, a carnival worker from Columbus, Ohio, as he lay on the broken sidewalk with a bullet wound in his chest. Residents of the area later said they heard someone groaning after a shot was fired.

But nobody called police until it was too late. Yost, who was white, died on a street corner in the predominantly black Orange Mound section.

"Apathy," said Capt. Tommy Smith,

Jojoba Oil May Be Alternative To Whale Oil

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Researchers here are analyzing oil from the fruit of the jojoba shrub as an alternative to sperm whale oil.

Recent restrictions on the killing of sperm whales have increased interest in substituting jojoba oil as an ingredient for products using whale oil, such as high-performance hydraulic fluids, cosmetics, pharmaceuticals and leather dressings.

Scientists at Battelle Columbus Laboratories have begun a five-month technical and economic analysis program to provide data on the commercial availability of jojoba oil.

The substance has been known about for 200 years. The shrub is native to the Sonoran desert region in Arizona, California and northwestern Mexico.

commander of the Memphis Police Department's homicide squad. "It happens in New York, it happens in Memphis and it happens in Oxford, Miss."

Smith said apathy was not a problem unique to the black community. "No more so than in the white," he said.

A 21-year-old man surrendered to police the day after the shooting and told officers he had fought with Yost.

"He said that Yost was carrying the pistol and that Yost pulled it on him and that they had fought over the gun," Smith said.

Smith refused to speculate whether Yost might have lived if he had gotten help. "That's a question only God can answer," he said.

Christopher Bonds, director of the Orange Mound Community Action Agency, partially agrees with Smith.

"I'm sure apathy has a part in what happened the other night," Bonds said, "but I think that more than that it was probably fear."

"It's dark ... somebody goes to the aid of someone who appears to be in trouble only to find themselves confronting a gun."

"While everybody would want to help somebody that is in trouble, they are just afraid to do it, simply because there have been too many incidents of people rising up and robbing them."

The Orange Mound neighborhood is a mixture of neat, single-family dwellings and public housing developments. It has produced athletes, businessmen and leaders. One resident became one of the city's first black judges.

Residents of the area where Yost was found are reluctant to discuss the slaying and the reasons no one acted.

Ohio Senate Report

By OAKLEY C. COLLINS
17th District Senator

The Senate returned from its late summer recess to face a relatively light session on Monday afternoon. The tempo of activity increased somewhat on Tuesday and again on Wednesday. By Thursday — the final day of this week's session — several important measures were scheduled for floor votes and other key pieces of legislation were being heard in committee.

The most significant bill passed by the Senate on Monday was Senate Bill 279. This bill provides that recipients of war orphans scholarships can use their awards at private, as well as public, educational institutions. Previously, such scholarships could only be used to attend public educational institutions. This bill passed the Senate unanimously and was sent on to the House for consideration.

On Tuesday, five bills were passed. Most important in this group was a bill authorizing county commissioners to transfer unneeded real property to other governmental units. This bill, which also passed unanimously, was co-sponsored by Senator Oakley Collins of Ironton.

Wednesday's floor action resulted in passage of four bills and one House Joint Resolution. Three of these four bills deserve mention. Substitute Senate Bill 87, which passed 26-6, provides for a more efficient system of enforcement of court-ordered support payments. Under terms of this legislation, every common pleas court in Ohio is required to establish a bureau of support to administer court orders for support payments to spouses or minor children. The bill also provides mechanisms by which this support bureau can take action to obtain support payments from those persons who are defaulting on their obligations.

Amended Substitute House Bill 29 was approved by a 31 to 0 vote. This measure adds house trailers and house trailer parks to the list of "residential premises" which are covered by Ohio's landlord-tenant law. The bill establishes certain statutory obligations for trailer park operators and their tenants. It prohibits a trailer park operator from retaliating against a tenant who files complaints against the operator and it allows trailer park tenants to deposit rent with the court if the trailer park operator does not live up to this statutory obligations under this legislation.

The third significant bill to be passed Wednesday afternoon was substitute senate bill 157. This bill, passed by a vote of 33-0, requires that a copy of any prescription for a vision correcting item or procedure be given to the patient. Moreover, the bill prohibits unreasonable restraints of advertising such vision correcting items (eyeglasses, etc.) The bill was co-sponsored by Senator Oakley C. Collins of Ironton.

Two very important bills and one resolution received Senate approval on Thursday. Amended House Bill 670 was — quite frankly — a very partisan piece of legislation. It is designed to remove certain employees of the state auditor's office — such as state examiners, examiner supervisors, computer services personnel, etc. — from the civil service rolls and once again allow such posts to be filled by political patronage methods. This bill can be a very serious blow to the professional and career-oriented state employees who are called upon to supervise all aspects of the state's financial operations. Replacing career civil service personnel with patronage employees in this vital state office has potentially serious consequences for the entire state government. The bill passed — after heated floor debate by a 21-12 margin.

The second major bill passed at this session was Substitute Senate Bill 90, which provides that outpatient coverage for mental or emotional disorders and outpatient, inpatient and residential care coverage for alcoholism be included in certain group subscription contracts and insurance policies. Such coverage is not now available to all who might wish to have it. This situation would be corrected if Senate Bill 90 becomes law.

Finally, a resolution was passed memorializing Congress to take the necessary steps to halt imports of foreign steel into the United States. Such imports, which are often sold at a loss here in the United States by foreign governments, have had a disastrous effect on the American steel industry. Early this week, Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company announced a layoff of 5,000 employees at its Mahoning Valley plants. Foreign imports of steel were cited as a major factor necessitating these job layoffs. The resolution to Congress passed the Senate unanimously.

In other Senate action, committee hearings were scheduled on Senate Bill 222 — collective bargaining for public employees — and the state's capital improvements budget. More will be heard on these two major bills next week.

Ashland Oil To Buy Puerto Rican Firm

ASHLAND, Ky. (AP) — If the Federal Energy Administration and U.S. Department of Justice approved, Ashland Oil Inc. will buy 49 per cent of a financially troubled oil refining company for $50 million, officials said.

Ashland Oil's board of directors has voted to approve the purchase of Commonwealth Oil Refining Co. (CORCO) in Puerto Rico.

No details of the purchase were announced, and it was not known when the agreement would be implemented.

CORCO had assets of $566 million, 2,400 employees and revenues of slightly more than $1 billion in 1976.

The company also had financial troubles, with investors demanding repayment of a $400 million and long-range contracts that have resulted so far in financial losses.

CORCO lost $32 million in 1976 on revenues of $1 billion and $24 million in 1975 on revenues of $800 million. The loss for the quarter ended June 30 was $2.3 million on revenues of $196 million, Ashland Oil officials said.

Officials said Ashland Oil obtained in May an option to invest $50 million in a new series of munulatie preferred stock convertible into a 49 per cent interest in CORCO.

Under the agreement, Ashland Oil was to provide CORCO's refinery in Puerto Rico with feedstocks and other raw materials.

The company also said it would discuss product prices, import duties and future tax considerations with the government of Puerto Rico.

CORCO avoided bankruptcy earlier this year by giving Ashland Oil an opportunity to buy into the company.

Before Ashland Oil became involved, a nine-bank lending group, headed by New York's Citibank, froze CORCO's major deposits after Gulf Oil Corp. filed suit for $9 million allegedly due for shipments of oil to the Puerto Rico refinery.

When 13,200 London buildings were destroyed by the Great Fire in 1666, Holland provided England with aid. The grateful King Charles II in turn gave Holland the right to sell eels to Britain once a year, duty-free. Today, Dutch ships still pay an annual call to London with cargoes of tax-exempt eels, according to National Geographic.

The CHS reserve football squad probably gave host Athens some second thoughts Saturday morning when sophomore Danny Martin took the opening kickoff and went 75 yards for the score. The Tigers held Athens on four downs after that and forced the Bulldogs to punt. On the first Red and Black play from scrimmage it was Martin again, this time 94 yards for the tally.

Things were quiet then until the fourth period, when Keith Lewis capped a long Tiger drive with a four yard plunge. The final score for the visitors came when Anthony Smith snared a Bulldog aerial and scampered 45 yards for the six points.

Les Robinson's foot guided the ball through the uprights on all conversion attempts.

Tiger reserve coach Tom Cole had high praise for the reserve team, stating that many players had to start in positions that they normally don't play.

With a 3-0 slate for the season, the reserves will take on the Logan Chieftans' reserve squad Saturday morning in Tiger Stadium.

Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver quoted a New York Yankees coach after the Orioles' latest loss: "As Yogi Berra once said, 'It's not over until it's over.'"

The Orioles lost to the Cleveland Indians 9-4 Sunday, dropping to third place, 3½ games behind the front-running Yankees and one-half game behind second-place Boston.

"Strange game, this baseball," Weaver said. "We've only had about four games like that all year. But I guess you have to have 'em, and you can't pick when you want it to happen."

The loss probably hurt even more since Wayne Garland, 12-19, got the victory. Garland, a 20-game winner for the Orioles last season, signed with Cleveland as a free agent during the off-season.

The Orioles jumped on Garland in the first inning as rookie Eddie Murray blasted a three-run homer, his 25th of the season.

The Orioles rallied, aided by four Baltimore errors, with five runs in the fifth inning, then added four more in the seventh to ensure the victory.

In other AL games Sunday, Boston crushed Detroit 12-5, New York swept a doubleheader from Toronto 15-0 and 2-0, Texas took two from Oakland 5-4 and 8-6, Kansas City won a pair from California 6-3 and 6-2, Seattle edged Chicago 5-4 and Milwaukee and Minnesota split a twinbill, Milwaukee winning the opener 8-6 and Minnesota taking the nightcap 8-4.

Red Sox 12, Tigers 5

Home runs by Carlton Fisk, Carl Yastrzemski and Butch Hobson helped power Boston over Detroit and keep the Red Sox in the American League East race. Reggie Cleveland, 11-8, went all the way for the win despite giving up 18 hits, including a homer by

While Tom Seaver and Tommy John were attaining personal goals, the Philadelphia Phillies moved to within one step of their team goal — the National League East pennant.

Both Seaver and John won their 20th games Sunday, Seaver in a 4-0 triumph over Atlanta and John by beating Houston 5-4.

Philadelphia, meanwhile, clinched a tie for the Eastern Division title with an 8-5 victory over Montreal. The Phillies, who lead Pittsburgh by 6½ games, can take the Eastern pennant with a win in Chicago today.

"Everybody pitched in and did a good job, that's how we got here," said a happy Danny Ozark, the Phillies manager. "I think the utility guys did the job at the beginning of the season. Our bench strength really helped us."

Ozark likes the Phillies' chances against Los Angeles in the playoffs.

"I think our bullpen is stronger and pitching is so important in a short series," he said. "And we have the offense to win it, too."

Philadelphia's two most vital offensive weapons, Greg Luzinski and Mike Schmidt, each had three hits in Sunday's victory, with Luzinski smashing his 37th home run.

Yankees 15-2, Blue Jays 0-0

New York blasted 20 hits in their first-game massacre of Toronto, then rode the combined five-hit pitching of Ed Figueroa and Sparky Lyle to the nightcap win.

The sweep gave the Yankees a three-game bulge over second-place Boston in the AL East.

In the opener, Ron Guidry, 16-6, allowed just seven hits, walked only one and struck out 10 for his fifth shutout of the season as he received home run support from Reggie Jackson, Dave Kingman, Lou Piniella and Cliff Johnson, who hit two.

Royals 6-6, Angels 3-2

A throwing error by Nolan Ryan led to Kansas City's winning four-run rally in the nightcap after the first game was marked by a bench and bullpen-clearing fight with Angels pitcher Ken Brett being ejected. The sweep gave Kansas City an eight-game winning streak and 24 victories in its last 25 games.

Rangers 5-8, A's 4-6

Keitt Smith's home run to lead off the 14th inning boosted Texas to its first-game victory while Kurt Bevacqua drove in three runs with a double and a single to power the Rangers to their win in the nightcap. The sweep gave the Rangers five straight victories and 10 in their last 11 games.

Brewers 8-4, Twins 6-8

Von Joshua rapped out four hits and Cecil Cooper knocked in three runs to lift Milwaukee to its first-game victory. In the nightcap, Dan Ford doubled in the go-ahead run in the three-run fifth inning as Minnesota gained a split.

Mariners 5, White Sox 4

A three-run homer by Lee Stanton backed Doc Medich's pitching as Seattle wound up its initial home season with a victory over Chicago. Stanton's 27th home run of the season gave Seattle a 5-1 lead and relievers Rick Honeycutt and Enrico Romo came on to halt a White Sox rally.

Frosh Post Shutout Win

The Circleville freshmen football team proved to be rude hosts to the Lancaster Gold team Saturday morning, as they pinned a 20-0 loss on the visiting eleven. It was the second straight shutout for the frosh defensive unit.

The Red and Black offense amassed 256 yards in the contest, picking up 246 on the ground and 10 through the air.

A Tiger score came in the opening quarter, when Brad Landis raced 17 yards to paydirt. Landis repeated in the third quarter, this time on a 43 yard tour of the gridiron, and signal-caller Brad Fisher zipped a pass to Tony Zimmerman for the conversion. The final TD came when Stuart Payne smashed three yards for the six-point.

Landis lugged the ball 10 times and rolled up 111 yards, Payne got the call 13 times and responded with 74 yards, and Bob Milstead accounted for 42 yards in five carries.

Frosh coach Dave Truex cited the following members of his blocking corps for an outstanding effort: Jim Frericks, Rocky Ford, Brad Fox, Brian Detty, Craig Berlin, Dallas Hettinger, Tony Zimmerman, Steve Whitehead, Todd Huffer, and Greg Greenlee.

Leading the defensive charge were Payne, Milstead, Ford, Detty, Rich Davis, Fox, Larry Pennington, Steve Moore, Greg Greenlee, and Marc Gearhardt. Truex said the defensive ends and cornermen were instrumental in stopping the Lancaster option play.

"It was a team effort in every way," stated Truex. "All the players got a chance to play and contribute, and this is what we work for all week. I was very happy with the win, as we showed improvement in every phase of the game."

The next game for the freshmen will be this Thursday at Miami Trace starting at 4:45 p.m.

Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver quoted a New York Yankees coach after the Orioles' latest loss: "As Yogi Berra once said, 'It's not over until it's over.'"

The Orioles lost to the Cleveland Indians 9-4 Sunday, dropping to third place, 3½ games behind the front-running Yankees and one-half game behind second-place Boston.

"Strange game, this baseball," Weaver said. "We've only had about four games like that all year. But I guess you have to have 'em, and you can't pick when you want it to happen."

The loss probably hurt even more since Wayne Garland, 12-19, got the victory. Garland, a 20-game winner for the Orioles last season, signed with Cleveland as a free agent during the off-season.

The Orioles jumped on Garland in the first inning as rookie Eddie Murray blasted a three-run homer, his 25th of the season.

The Orioles made it 4-0 before Cleveland rallied, aided by four Baltimore errors, with five runs in the fifth inning, then added four more in the seventh to ensure the victory.

In other AL games Sunday, Boston crushed Detroit 12-5, New York swept a doubleheader from Toronto 15-0 and 2-0, Texas took two from Oakland 5-4 and 8-6, Kansas City won a pair from California 6-3 and 6-2, Seattle edged Chicago 5-4 and Milwaukee and Minnesota split a twinbill, Milwaukee winning the opener 8-6 and Minnesota taking the nightcap 8-4.

While Tom Seaver and Tommy John were attaining personal goals, the Philadelphia Phillies moved to within one step of their team goal — the National League East pennant.

Both Seaver and John won their 20th games Sunday. Seaver in a 4-0 triumph over Atlanta and John by beating Houston 5-4.

Philadelphia, meanwhile, clinched a tie for the Eastern Division title with an 8-5 victory over Montreal. The Phillies, who lead Pittsburgh by 6½ games, can take the Eastern pennant with a win in Chicago today.

"Everybody pitched in and did a good job, that's how we got here," said a happy Danny Ozark, the Phillies manager. "I think the utility guys did the job at the beginning of the season. Our bench strength really helped us."

Ozark likes the Phillies' chances against Los Angeles in the playoffs. "I think our bullpen is stronger and pitching is so important in a short series," he said. "And we have the offense to win it, too."

Philadelphia's two most vital offensive weapons, Greg Luzinski and Mike Schmidt, each had three hits in Sunday's victory, with Luzinski smashing his 37th home run.

Blalock Wins Round Hill

ALAMO, Calif. (AP) — A few days ago, Jane Blalock thought she might be headed for trouble. Instead, she's apparently headed for her first official $100,000 season on the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour.

The 32-year-old Miss Blalock had won at least one tournament every year since 1971. She already had two victories in 1977, but the last came in May and since then her golf game had provided little but frustration.

Sunday, however, she came from behind with three straight birdies to open the back nine, made a key shot on the 14th hole that not only saved a stroke but also rescued her confidence, and took the $100,000 Ladies Professional Golfers Association tournament at Round Hill Country Club.

Blalock's final-round, two-under total of 71 gave her a 72-hole score of 282, 10 under par and three shots better than Pat Meyers, who tied for the day's low round of 69, and Debbie Austin, the 54-hole leader.

The victory was worth $15,000 for Miss Blalock, who now has won a shade more than $98,000 for the season. A decent finish in the Dallas Civitan will lift her over the $100,000 mark, the way the win Sunday lifted her spirit.

L.A. Likely To Be Host For Olympics

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — After more than four decades of dogged effort, the city of Los Angeles may once again be host to the Summer Olympic Games.

In what was considered a close 55-39 vote Sunday, the U.S. Olympic Committee selected Los Angeles over New York to be the American representative before the International Olympic Committee, which will choose the city to stage the 1984 Summer Olympic Games.

Los Angeles is virtually assured the Games because no other city has made a bid. The deadline for receiving bids is Oct. 31. The IOC will make its selection next May in Athens.

Los Angeles, which held the Games the last time they were in the United States in 1932, stressed "Spartan approach" throughout the competition and in its final presentation before the USOC executive board.

The city emphasized that almost all of the needed facilities such as the Memorial Coliseum, used in 1932, and the Rose Bowl were already in place and only a $33.5 million capital outlay would be necessary for the others.

"By using the existing facilities for the most part, Los Angeles will be able to keep new construction to a minimum," Mayor Tom Bradley told the delegates. "And it is for this reason that we can confidently say that the Olympic Games in Los Angeles will be staged on a financially break-even basis."

Mike Hill Sets Record In OKIO

MASON, Ohio (AP) — After a five-year dry spell on the pro golf tour, Mike Hill is sipping champagne and smiling again following Sunday's record-setting, 11-under-par performance in the $150,000 Ohio Kings Island Open.

But the happiest face in the Hill family is at home.

"I've got a 5-year-old son who doesn't understand why daddy never wins. He's too young to understand defeat," Hill said after winning only his third tournament in nine years on the tour.

"It's really a moral victory to win after five years. If you're on the downside and you can turn it around, it means something. It showed I still had some heart," he said.

Hill, 38, broke out of his long slump with a front-nine birdie spree that allowed him to hang on for a one-stroke victory fast-following Tom Kite, whose 62 tied Jack Nicklaus' course record. Hill's 64 gave him a 269 total which lopped two strokes off the tournament record.

His four-foot putt on No. 18 snuffed out a bold bid by Kite, who had just birdied the hole. He narrowly missed an eagle when his 25-foot pitch from thick rough hit the pin and rolled five feet away.

"I had to make it to keep from going into a playoff. All those good shots I made would have been wasted," said Hill, who called the effort his best shot-making day of his career.

Hill, who entered the final round tied with defending champion Ben Crenshaw, built an early four-stroke lead by carding birdies on five of the first seven holes.

The victory was worth $30,000 for the Jackson, Mich., native, or $10,000 more than he had earned all year. Earlier in the week, Hill, who is the younger brother of tour veteran Dave Hill, said he would quit the tour if he failed to earn less than $25,000 a year two years in a row.

"I promised my wife I'd find something else. I was spinning my tires," said the father of three who ranked 97th in tour earnings going into the tournament.

"I've reprieved myself. I've got two more years," he said.

Cincinnati, Dallas, Oakland NFL Winners

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

In the case of National Football League defense vs. offense, we have a clear example of a hung jury after Sunday's games.

Among the exhibits for the defense are Los Angeles' 20-0 shutout over Philadelphia, and Denver's defensive unit, still unscored upon this season after the Broncos jolted Buffalo 26-6.

For the offense, there is Dallas' 41-21 demolition of the New York Giants and Cincinnati's 42-20 rout of Seattle.

In Sunday's other games, Baltimore downed the New York Jets 20-12, Washington topped Atlanta 10-6, St. Louis edged Chicago 16-13, Houston defeated Green Bay 16-10, Detroit held off New Orleans 23-19, San Diego ripped Kansas City 23-7, Miami whipped San Francisco 19-15 and Oakland defeated Pittsburgh 16-7.

In Saturday night's game, Minnesota edged Tampa Bay 9-3.

New England plays at Cleveland tonight, completing the second week of the NFL season.

Chargers 23, Chiefs 7

The first witness for the defense will be Leroy Jones, who plays tackle for the San Diego Chargers. Since he stands 6 feet 8 and weighs 274 pounds, it is suggested that you pay attention.

Jones was minding his business in Kansas City Sunday when Mike Livingston faded back to pass. Livingston was hit, the ball squirted loose and the pass settled in Jones' arms at the Chiefs' 17-yard line. The event was so unsettling that when Jones started running, he took off in the wrong direction.

With his teammates waving and yelling, Jones realized the error after about 10 yards. He reversed his field and churned back into the Chiefs' end zone for a touchdown, breaking a couple of tackles as he hit paydirt.

Broncos 26, Bills 6

The next witness for the defense will be Buffalo running back O.J. Simpson, who carried 15 times for a mere 54 yards against Denver.

Asked if a sprained ankle had affected his play, Simpson said, "What affected my play was their linebackers."

Quarterback Craig Morton passed for one TD and ran for another against the Bills.

Oilers 16, Packers 10

Next, the defense calls Houston cornerback Willie Alexander, who intercepted a pass and went 95 yards with it for the winning touchdown in Houston's victory over Green Bay.

"I just turned to where the ball was," said Alexander, who scored with less than five minutes to play, breaking a 10-10 tie. "I never figured touchdown. I wanted to secure the ball, catch it first and then run."

Raiders 16, Steelers 7

Finally, the defense calls the Oakland Raiders, who chewed up Pittsburgh with interceptions by Jack Tatum, Willie Brown and Charles Phillips short-circuiting the Steeler attack.

The Raiders also sacked Terry

Seaver Wins 20th Game

ATLANTA (AP) — Tom Seaver, the pitcher who was supposed to win the pennant for the Cincinnati Reds, didn't. But it hardly seems his fault.

Seaver, traded from the New York Mets to the Reds last June, shut out Atlanta 4-0 on three hits Sunday, making his record 20-6 for the season — including 13 victories for the Reds.

He was aided by George Foster's 51st home run.

"Getting Seaver helped the entire staff," said Manager Sparky Anderson, who blames the Reds' loss of the pennant to the Dodgers on his own team's "caliber of pitching in the first three months of the season."

The Reds fell far behind the Dodgers early in the year and never caught up despite the acquisition of Seaver, who had four previous 20-victory seasons with the Mets.

The Cincinnati Reds pioneered in air travel as a means of transporting players to games, in 1938. —AP

Bradshaw five times for 51 yards, overshadowing field goals of 21, 40 and 41 yards by Errol Mann and Mark Van Eeghen's eight-yard TD run.

Cowboys 41, Giants 21

The first witness for the offense will be Roger Staubach, who led Dallas' demolition of the New York Giants, completing 18 of 29 passes for 235 yards. Staubach ran for one TD, passed for another and had a string of 10 consecutive completions over one stretch.

Also testifying for the Cowboys will be rookie running back Tony Dorsett, who scored his first NFL TDs on runs of 11 and 34 yards.

Cardinals 16, Bears 13

Next, the offense calls Jim Hart, who completed 16 of 24 passes for 215 yards and had a streak of 12 straight completions, including a 10-yard TD pitch to J.V. Cain.

Jim Bakken supplied St. Louis' decisive points with field goals of 49, 36 and 41 yards as the Cards' attack rolled for 348 yards.

Bengals 42, Seahawks 20

Cincinnati's offense had to win its game twice. The Bengals scored the first three times they had the football and rolled to a 28-0 lead. Then penalties helped Seattle rally and the Seahawks chopped all but eight points off the Bengal lead.

But Ken Anderson, who completed 17 of 29 for 219 yards, threw for one TD and ran for another as Cincinnati nailed down the elusive victory.

Dolphins 19, 49ers 15

Fleet Nat Moore was a oneman

offense for Miami, catching scoring passes of 32 and 73 yards and going 19 yards on an end-around for the Dolphins' other touchdown.

"We feel we have an explosive offense, both in the air and on the ground," said Moore.

Rams 20, Eagles 0

Joe Namath, calling his own plays, pitched for a pair of touchdowns and Los Angeles shut out Philadelphia, limiting the Eagles to six first downs and 112 yards on offense.

A week ago, working with plays sent in from the sidelines the Rams dropped their opener in Atlanta.

Calling his own, Namath completed 12 of 23 for 136 yards and TDs of one yard to Terry Nelson and 13 to Lawrence McCutcheon.

Redskins 10, Falcons 6

Billy Kilmer's two-yard touchdown pass to Mike Thomas accounted for the game's lone touchdown as Washington defeated Atlanta.

"It was the first time we have been faced with a must-win situation this early in the season," said Redskins Coach George Allen, whose club was upset by the New York Giants last Sunday.

Lions 23, Saints 19

Tight end Charlie Sanders set a Detroit club record on a 20-yard TD pass from Greg Landry as the Lions defeated New Orleans. The catch was the 326th of Sanders' career, one more than the old club record held by Gail Cogdill.

Colts 20, Jets 12

Don McCauley scored a pair of close-

in touchdowns as Baltimore downed the New York Jets.

Both of McCauley's scores followed a fumble on an attempted punt that left Baltimore on the one-yard line.

"I had to make it to keep from going into a playoff. All those good shots I made would have been wasted," said Hill, who called the effort his best shot-making day of his career.

Hill, who entered the final round tied with defending champion Ben Crenshaw, built an early four-stroke lead by carding birdies on five of the first seven holes.

The victory was worth $30,000 for the Jackson, Mich., native, or $10,000 more than he had earned all year. Earlier in the week, Hill, who is the younger brother of tour veteran Dave Hill, said he would quit the tour if he failed to earn less than $25,000 a year two years in a row.

"I promised my wife I'd find something else. I was spinning my tires," said the father of three who ranked 97th in tour earnings going into the tournament.

"I've reprieved myself. I've got two more years," he said.

Cincinnati, Dallas, Oakland NFL Winners

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

In the case of National Football League defense vs. offense, we have a clear example of a hung jury after Sunday's games.

Among the exhibits for the defense are Los Angeles' 20-0 shutout over Philadelphia, and Denver's defensive unit, still unscored upon this season after the Broncos jolted Buffalo 26-6.

For the offense, there is Dallas' 41-21 demolition of the New York Giants and Cincinnati's 42-20 rout of Seattle.

In Sunday's other games, Baltimore downed the New York Jets 20-12, Washington topped Atlanta 10-6, St. Louis edged Chicago 16-13, Houston defeated Green Bay 16-10, Detroit held off New Orleans 23-19, San Diego ripped Kansas City 23-7, Miami whipped San Francisco 19-15 and Oakland defeated Pittsburgh 16-7.

In Saturday night's game, Minnesota edged Tampa Bay 9-3.

New England plays at Cleveland tonight, completing the second week of the NFL season.

Chargers 23, Chiefs 7

The first witness for the defense will be Leroy Jones, who plays tackle for the San Diego Chargers. Since he stands 6 feet 8 and weighs 274 pounds, it is suggested that you pay attention.

Jones was minding his business in Kansas City Sunday when Mike Livingston faded back to pass. Livingston was hit, the ball squirted loose and the pass settled in Jones' arms at the Chiefs' 17-yard line. The event was so unsettling that when Jones started running, he took off in the wrong direction.

With his teammates waving and yelling, Jones realized the error after about 10 yards. He reversed his field and churned back into the Chiefs' end zone for a touchdown, breaking a couple of tackles as he hit paydirt.

Broncos 26, Bills 6

The next witness for the defense will be Buffalo running back O.J. Simpson, who carried 15 times for a mere 54 yards against Denver.

Asked if a sprained ankle had affected his play, Simpson said, "What affected my play was their linebackers."

Quarterback Craig Morton passed for one TD and ran for another against the Bills.

Oilers 16, Packers 10

Next, the defense calls Houston cornerback Willie Alexander, who intercepted a pass and went 95 yards with it for the winning touchdown in Houston's victory over Green Bay.

"I just turned to where the ball was," said Alexander, who scored with less than five minutes to play, breaking a 10-10 tie. "I never figured touchdown. I wanted to secure the ball, catch it first and then run."

Raiders 16, Steelers 7

Finally, the defense calls the Oakland Raiders, who chewed up Pittsburgh with interceptions by Jack Tatum, Willie Brown and Charles Phillips short-circuiting the Steeler attack.

The Raiders also sacked Terry

Seaver Wins 20th Game

ATLANTA (AP) — Tom Seaver, the pitcher who was supposed to win the pennant for the Cincinnati Reds, didn't. But it hardly seems his fault.

Seaver, traded from the New York Mets to the Reds last June, shut out Atlanta 4-0 on three hits Sunday, making his record 20-6 for the season — including 13 victories for the Reds.

He was aided by George Foster's 51st home run.

"Getting Seaver helped the entire staff," said Manager Sparky Anderson, who blames the Reds' loss of the pennant to the Dodgers on his own team's "caliber of pitching in the first three months of the season."

The Reds fell far behind the Dodgers early in the year and never caught up despite the acquisition of Seaver, who had four previous 20-victory seasons with the Mets.

The Cincinnati Reds pioneered in air travel as a means of transporting players to games, in 1938. —AP

Bradshaw five times for 51 yards, overshadowing field goals of 21, 40 and 41 yards by Errol Mann and Mark Van Eeghen's eight-yard TD run.

Cowboys 41, Giants 21

The first witness for the offense will be Roger Staubach, who led Dallas' demolition of the New York Giants, completing 18 of 29 passes for 235 yards. Staubach ran for one TD, passed for another and had a string of 10 consecutive completions over one stretch.

Also testifying for the Cowboys will be rookie running back Tony Dorsett, who scored his first NFL TD on runs of 11 and 34 yards.

Cardinals 16, Bears 13

Next, the offense calls Jim Hart, who completed 16 of 24 passes for 215 yards and had a streak of 12 straight completions, including a 10-yard TD pitch to J.V. Cain.

Jim Bakken supplied St. Louis' decisive points with field goals of 49, 36 and 41 yards as the Cards' attack rolled for 348 yards.

Bengals 42, Seahawks 20

Cincinnati's offense had to win its game twice. The Bengals scored the first three times they had the football and rolled to a 28-0 lead. Then penalties helped Seattle rally and the Seahawks chopped all but eight points off the Bengal lead.

But Ken Anderson, who completed 17 of 29 for 219 yards, threw for one TD and ran for another as Cincinnati nailed down the elusive victory.

Dolphins 19, 49ers 15

Fleet Nat Moore was a oneman

offense for Miami, catching scoring passes of 32 and 73 yards and going 19 yards on an end-around for the Dolphins' other touchdown.

"We feel we have an explosive offense, both in the air and on the ground," said Moore.

Rams 20, Eagles 0

Joe Namath, calling his own plays, pitched for a pair of touchdowns and Los Angeles shut out Philadelphia, limiting the Eagles to six first downs and 112 yards on offense.

A week ago, working with plays sent in from the sidelines the Rams dropped their opener in Atlanta.

Calling his own, Namath completed 12 of 23 for 136 yards and TDs of one yard to Terry Nelson and 13 to Lawrence McCutcheon.

Redskins 10, Falcons 6

Billy Kilmer's two-yard touchdown pass to Mike Thomas accounted for the game's lone touchdown as Washington defeated Atlanta.

"It was the first time we have been faced with a must-win situation this early in the season," said Redskins Coach George Allen, whose club was upset by the New York Giants last Sunday.

Lions 23, Saints 19

Tight end Charlie Sanders set a Detroit club record on a 20-yard TD pass from Greg Landry as the Lions defeated New Orleans. The catch was the 326th of Sanders' career, one more than the old club record held by Gail Cogdill.

Colts 20, Jets 12

Don McCauley scored a pair of close-

in touchdowns as Baltimore downed the New York Jets.

Both of McCauley's scores followed Jet mistakes — an offside penalty on an attempted field goal that supplied the Colts with a key first down and a fumble on an attempted punt that left Baltimore on the one-yard line.

Forecast For The Fields

By The Associated Press
Here is the agriculture weather advisory for Ohio provided by the National Weather Service:

A cold front will move eastward across Ohio today, accompanied by scattered showers. Partly cloudy to cloudy conditions are likely across the state tonight and Tuesday along with cooler drier conditions. A few showers may linger in eastern areas on Tuesday. Fair weather is expected Wednesday through Thursday with a return of a chance of showers about Friday.

Field operations — Scattered wetting has occurred through the night in Ohio. A further chance of wetting is indicated yet today but mainly for eastern areas. A more favorable drying period will be developing later today and Tuesday, continuing at moderate rates Wednesday and Thursday. This should firm up the soils and evaporate any excess surface moisture. Evaporation rates will range from .15 to .20 inches today and Tuesday, then some increase is likely on Wednesday and Thursday.

Corn and soybeans — Moisture picked up by soybeans from showers since the weekend should be about dissipated by Wednesday afternoon. Favorable combine operation conditions are likely in the afternoons Wednesday and Thursday. Corn drydown will be making good progress this week. For corn of higher moisture content reduction rates of .5 per cent per day or more are likely.

Tobacco — Cutting and wilting conditions will be favorable for tobacco Tuesday through Thursday. Barn ventilation conditions will be marginal today, then good Tuesday through Thursday as afternoon humidity decreases into the 50s or lower.

Fruits and vegetables — Improved soil conditions by midweek should permit resumption of potato digging operations. Tree fruit harvest operations should be excellent Tuesday through Thursday. Only brief interruptions are indicated for today and Friday by scattered wetting periods. Ripening rates will be moderate.

Old Couple Dance 47 'Short' Hours

BUENA PARK, Calif. (AP) — For Oscar Belinda, a veteran of the three-month dance marathons of the Depression, 47 hours of dancing was as easy as a bunny hop for Peter Rabbit. "It was just a short one," said Belinda, 76, of San Diego after finishing third in Sunday's charity event at Knott's Berry Farm. Proceeds are going to the St. Jude's Hospital in Memphis, Tenn.

Belinda said he first waltzed in a marathon more than 45 years ago in the now defunct Egyptian ballroom in Santa Monica.

The Sunday fox trot was the first ever for Belinda's partner, Dorothy McClarnan, 57, of Hawaiian Gardens. "I'm fine, thank you," she said after the dance. "I think I could dance a few more hours yet."

Belinda and his partner each won $500 for third place and a color television for being the oldest contestants. The winners were a Santa Barbara couple, Stuart Eisenman and Jeanette Collins, both in their early 20s.

Cigar Smoke Continues Decline

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department says cigar smoking continues to decline, mainly because young people haven't taken to them.

Officials said in a new "tobacco situation" report that 1977 cigar consumption may drop a further 7 per cent to around 5.02 billion cigars, compared with nearly 5.4 billion puffed last year.

"Consumption has fallen steadily since 1970, lifestyle continues to shift and younger persons become less attracted to cigars," the report said. "This consumption downturn is expected to continue next year."

More Ohioans Losing Jobs; Goodyear Announces Layoffs

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Lines began to get longer around unemployment offices in Ohio today as workers felt the impact of nearly 7,000 industrial layoffs and terminations announced last week.

At least 6,200 layoffs were attributed to the steel industry, mostly in the Youngstown area. Goodyear Rubber Co. furloughed 650 workers in Akron.

Meanwhile, U.S. Steel had little to say about a leading brokerage analyst's report it may not proceed with a proposed $3.4 billion steel manufacturing center in northeast Ohio and northwest Pennsylvania.

The steel industry blamed lax government import rules and costly implementation of confusing federal environmental guidelines.

Unemployment was expected to spread as support industries to major steel mills began to see their business reduced.

Workers without jobs faced the basic concerns of paying grocery bills and house payments on unemployment compensation of half or less than their regular paychecks.

City officials in a half-dozen cities say layoffs will be devastating to schools and government functions which depend on taxes.

Gov. James A. Rhodes ordered temporary offices be set up in union halls at Struthers and Campbell to handle unemployment claims and job applications where 5,000 or more jobs are to be terminated. He ordered extra staff for the unemployment office at Middletown where Arnco Steel announced it is cutting out 600 jobs.

Rules Explained

By RICH HIXON

"If a student misses one day of school without his/her parents' permission, he/she will be counted truant," stated Brown. Logan Elm's assistant principal. The student's name will be turned into the county attendance officer at which time the officer sends a letter to the home of the parents, alerting them to the truancy.

The second time a student is truant he/she is taken to Juvenile Court.

One must be 18 years old to drop out of school without permission of the parents. The youngest age one can drop out of school is 16 years old. In order to do that, a student must have a work permit, a full time job and a statement from home saying that the money from the job is needed to support the family. The work permit has to be approved by a county authority and then by a judge.

MAJORETTES — Twirling their way this year, in front of the Logan Elm Band, are from the left, Rhonda Connell, Brenda Bolender, Kim Williams, Jackie Cave and Kim Harris.

Year Looks Bright at LE

By VERONICA MILLER

Minor problems are seen at Logan Elm, but this year's future looks bright to the principal and hopeful to the guidance counselor. "A great vast majority of the students are fine, decent young people," this was stated by the Principal of Logan Elm High School, Dow West. There also seems to be a new, live spirit this year even after the usual rough start everyone got off to the first week of school. The will to learn of the student body seems to be good this year and students are trying to equip themselves to meet the challenges of college or the world of work. Self respect and public respect has risen to a higher level this year, and the graduating students want to graduate with a good self concept. This can all be influenced by good teachers motivating the students' will to learn and installing self-pride.

Some of the problems that face

Logan Elm are: over crowding, all classrooms being used every period due to the growing school-population. Butch Kobel, guidance counselor, in recognizing these problems, said he is "trying to do as much as possible to make the student learning experience at Logan Elm an enjoyable and educational one." This year, because of these problems, it may prove to be a challenge for both students and teachers.

Although this situation does face Logan Elm there is help, such as, a new guidance program whereby students meet at least monthly which will help reach the students and give them information about careers, occupations, and how to get a good job. With this program and everyone's help Logan Elm can have another good year.

responsible citizens." This response seemed to be respective of most people asked.

Many felt the progress is excellent and the teachers are trying harder and the students are more willing to learn.

To further our survey we inquired about the feelings toward the school's activity program and if people felt such a program was worth while. The general answer was that activities are very important in such ways as helping the students to get along with developing their mental attitudes.

The final question of our survey dealt with what do people in this community think about the general attitudes of the students toward adults? Answers varied greatly but the three most common responses were that the attitudes are falling apart compared to past years, that 95 per cent of the student body has a good attitude and a final one was that the attitudes of students are the mirrors of their parents and lack of respect and discipline stem from the home.

Views On Television

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An oddly flat dramatization of an emotionally charged, widely publicized legal and moral case is on NBC tonight. It's a TV movie, "In the Matter of Karen Ann Quinlan."

Brian Keith and Piper Laurie star as Joe and Julie Quinlan, parents of the young New Jersey woman who lapsed into a coma — and never came out of it — 2½ years ago after a few drinks at a friend's birthday celebration.

Doctors said her brain was hopelessly damaged. Her condition was deteriorating rapidly. Death seemed inevitable.

Her parents, devout Catholics, faced an agonizing decision: Should they let her die a natural death, tell the doctors to turn off the respirator that artificially kept her alive?

Their decision was widely debated in legal, medical and religious circles. It led to a landmark right-to-die court battle.

Tonight's retelling of that sad, difficult time for the Quinlans is a commendable effort in restraint, particularly in that we never see the girl in her latter stages of deterioration.

We do see fine work by Keith, Miss Laurie and David Huffman — he cast as the Quinlans' young lawyer, Paul Armstrong, who took their case at great personal financial sacrifice.

Strong support also comes from David Spielberg as a doctor who, out of his own convictions, refused the Quinlans' plea to turn off the machine all thought was the only thing keeping her alive.

And the script by Hal Sitowitz is remarkably low-key for such an easy-to-sensationalize story. Unfortunately, he does change some facts recalled by the Quinlans in their book, "Karen Ann."

In one scene, for example, a shyster lawyer sees Armstrong filing the first petition in the case and rushes to a phone to tip off a newspaper pal. Not so, according to the book.

It says Armstrong, on the advice of a prosecutor in the case, arranged to meet with three local reporters after filing the petition, the idea being to get the issues "properly interpreted."

The script also shows that Miss Quinlan, who was under care at St. Clare's Hospital in Denville, N.J., remained there — although her parents wanted her transferred after the New Jersey Supreme Court decided they had the right to allow her to die a natural death.

The script says other hospitals and medical facilities, fearing bad publicity, refused to accept her after the court's decision.

But the book says she was accepted at a New Jersey facility, the Morris View Nursing Home, after trustees there reversed a long-time rule against accepting comatose patients.

Despite such lapses, the show remains generally true to events described in the Quinlans' book.

The book was taut, absorbing and moving. Unfortunately, tonight's dramatization, while done with taste and dignity, is anything but gripping.

FOR TUESDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Other people may play an important role in day's activities. Much will depend upon their reactions. Don't split hairs in discussions of minor importance.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Financial matters favored — especially in the a.m. On the personal score, however, you may run into a bit of difficulty in a romantic situation.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Stellar influences now give you a sharp, practical outlook on projects in which you are interested. Take advantage of the situation.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Attempts to alleviate an economic situation should be most successful now. The resources of another may even be put at your disposal.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Confusion could result if you misinterpret instructions misinterpret instructions in any way. A day for double-checking everything.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Don't expect associates to be amenable to the usual approaches now. Some situations will call for extreme delicacy in handling.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Your lively imagination may be running out of bounds right now. So, in trying to launch your ideas, be sure to separate the fantastic from the feasible.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): As with Libra, you will also have to dampen enthusiasm a bit. Excessive optimism could lead you to impractical extremes.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Reject the foolish notions of others. That logical mind of yours will come up with answers that are reasonable and solid.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Don't get wrought up over the spending habits of a partner — marital or business. With a little thought, compromise is possible.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): This will be one of those days when you'll have to "go it alone." Cooperation is likely to be spotty or nonexistent. But you CAN cope.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): You are in a mood to explore areas off the beaten path, but be careful not to wade in beyond your depth. Trends are changing.

YOU BORN TODAY, as a Libran, are an extremely versatile individual, endowed with a great love of beauty and a natural ability to create things which fulfill this side of yourself and bring great pleasure to others as well. You are also fond of intellectual pursuits and are most content in work which permits you to profitably employ the mind. Many of those born on this date have deeply religious and philosophical feelings and these are often expressed in their writings and art. Traits to curb: moodiness and hypersensitivity. GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Stellar influences now give you a sharp, practical outlook on projects in which you are interested. Take advantage of the situation.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Attempts to alleviate an economic situation should be most successful now. The resources of another may even be put at your disposal.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Confusion could result if you misinterpret instructions misinterpret instructions in any way. A day for double-checking everything.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Don't expect associates to be amenable to the usual approaches now. Some situations will call for extreme delicacy in handling.

Minorities Program

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two graduates of the Orchestral Training Program for Minority Students, which is sponsored by the Los Angeles Philharmonic, have won posts with California orchestras.

Rufus Olivier, 21, has been named second bassoon of the San Francisco Symphony and Oscar Meza, also 21, has been named to a string bass chair in the San Diego Symphony.

The program was conceived in 1972 and selects about 50 students each year. The candidates' average age is 18. Each musician works with a number of the Philharmonic to develop all aspects of orchestral techniques.

Two hundred years ago, certain scientists thought the sun was inhabited, says the American Museum-Hayden Planetarium.

The 48 million tons of rice consumed annually by rats in Asia will this year deprive people of enough grain to fill a freight train stretching more than 3,000 miles, says National Geographic.

Assembly Considers Bill To Aid Elderly, Handicapped

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A bill to aid elderly and handicapped Ohioans pay their winter heating utility costs tops the agenda as lawmakers move

School Board Appeals Bible Teaching Decision

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A seven-year court fight over whether a Florida school board can allow the reading and distribution of the Bible and the teaching of Christian virtues in public schools is again before a federal appeals court.

All 14 judges of the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals were to begin hearing testimony today on an appeal from the Orange County School Board, which takes in schools in Orlando.

The hearing comes six months after a three-judge panel of the same court ruled against the Florida law which required the teaching of "the practice of every Christian virtue."

The court ruled that Bible readings during a morning inspirational period in the Orange County schools were unconstitutional and threw out a policy

Painesville Outhouse Dedicated

PAINESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — The residents of Leroy Township were all invited to today's festivities accompanying the dedication of an outhouse.

"I've never dedicated an outhouse before," Jack Daniels, past president of the Lake County Historical Society, said.

The new facility is not as magnificent as some other buildings Daniels has dedicated but it's authentic, down to a catalogue hanging on a nail.

Last year, the Leroy Heritage Association renovated the Leroy Brakeman Church on Ohio 86 as a bicentennial project. Now it is called the South Leroy Meeting House.

But the hall is heated only by a potbellied stove and the association feared that plumbing for an indoor restroom might freeze.

So Harley Valentine, a carpenter, milled donated utility poles, built the privy, and even added a slate roof. The township felt such a nice little building should be properly dedicated.

Daniels has come up with an appropriate reading, a poem by James Whitcomb Riley entitled, "The Passing of the Backhouse."

Police File Drug Charges

Circleville Police made a drug arrest Friday evening following a tip that a man was carrying a concealed weapon in a local bar.

According to the report, shortly before 8 p.m. Friday, the Circleville Police Department received an anonymous telephone tip that a man in Tootle's Pumpkin Inn was carrying a .38 caliber weapon.

A short time later, Ptl. Ron Thompson entered Tootle's wearing plain clothes. At a signal from Thompson, Sgt. Larry Pontious, who was stationed across the street, also entered the bar. The two officers questioned and searched a man identified as Samuel R. Birchfield, of an unknown address.

Officers removed a .38 caliber automatic pistol from Birchfield's possession, placed him under arrest, and advised him of his rights.

The report states that during further searching of Birchfield at police headquarters, a plastic bag containing an unknown amount of marijuana was removed from his left sock.

He was charged with carrying a concealed weapon and possession of marijuana for use. Birchfield's car was impounded for further search.

Sgt. Pontious informed the Herald that a search of the vehicle this morning revealed 447 grams of marijuana. Additional charges of possession of marijuana over the bulk amount were filed against Birchfield.

allowing Bible distribution in schools. Eight families with various religious affiliations have been fighting the school board since 1970.

They contend the reading and distribution of the King James' Bible and other school board policies could offend Jewish, Catholic and some Protestant students. The families say the policies violate constitutional guarantees of separation of church and state and due process of law.

A lower court judge had said such a prohibition against the Bible would permit "governmental hostility to religion."

"Our contention is that a student should be at liberty to choose whatever he wants to read and that neither the Bible nor any other religious book should be on a taboo list," said school board attorney William Rowland.

Rowland said the board also wanted the right to make religious material available to students who wanted it at a centrally located place in schools.

The current board policy requires schools to open with "the opportunity for individual prayer and Bible reading or an inspirational or meditation presented by groups or organizations or an individual."

Youth Flees Policemen

A 16-year-old juvenile led Circleville Police on a high speed chase west of the city in the early hours of Sunday morning.

The report states that Sgt. W.L. Pontious, Ptl. Mike Eberhard, and Ptl. Ron Thompson were placing a subject that had just been arrested in the downtown area into a cruiser, when the officers heard an auto making excessive noise leaving a stop light at the intersection of Court and Main Streets.

The auto swerved into West Main Street from South Court Street and continued west on Main Street at a high rate of speed.

Sgt. Pontious and Ptl. Thompson gave chase, and reported that the subject ran a red light at the intersection of Scioto and Main Streets and continued west out of the city on U.S. Route 22 at speeds in excess of 100 miles per hour.

The juvenile turned his car west onto State Route 56 and travelled to State Route 104, turning north. The report states that on SR 104, the subject turned out the headlights on his vehicle and still continued at speeds in excess of 100 m.p.h.

The chase ended when the juvenile turned the auto into the Shady Acres Trailer Court and proceeded to the rear of the park, where he left the vehicle. Officers apprehended the youth and charged him with operating a motor vehicle without a valid operator's license and willfully eluding a police officer. He was placed in the juvenile detention center of the Pickaway County Jail.

BES showed the average rate of unemployment in 1973 was 4.0 per cent, in 1974 4.6 per cent, in 1975 8.5 per cent and in 1976 8.0 per cent.

During that period, the months the unemployment rate was the lowest were September, October, and November of 1973 when it was 3.5 per cent. The highest month was February of 1976 when it was 9.5 per cent.

The workforce has grown from an average of 16,245 in 1973 to an average of 16,751 in 1976. The average number of persons employed in 1973 was 15,594 and the average number employed in 1976 was 15,409, down 185 persons.

majority Democratic leaders during the height of the energy crisis last winter.

And while several other energy measures will be left pending when the General Assembly adjourns later this week, Majority Leader Oliver Ocasek, D-27 Akron, says the utility subsidy will "definitely" face a Senate vote, probably on Thursday.

The bill, already approved by the House, is up for a hearing today in the Senate Finance Committee and a second one on Wednesday, if necessary.

Sen. Harry Meshel, D-33 Youngstown, wants to take a look at the funding mechanism, a scheme that calls for a temporary acceleration of excise tax payments by Ohio gas and electric companies.

It would generate $40 million during the current fiscal year and $52 million next year. After that, tax payments will level off and a new method will have to be found to pay for the program, if it is continued.

The bill sets up a Energy Credits Advisory Committee to study that problem, determine how many people benefit from the two-year plan and gauge the impact on "uncollectable" heating bills.

Those over 65, and permanently, totally disabled citizens, in both cases earning no more than $7,000 a year, would qualify.

The credit would amount to 25 per cent of their bill, unless they used heating oil, in which case it would provide $87.50 for each of the next two heating seasons.

State senators must give the bill at least a 22-vote majority from the 33-member upper chamber to assure that it will take effect immediately upon Gov. James A. Rhodes signature.

Otherwise, the regular 90-day waiting period would delay the start of the program almost to the first of the year. The heating season begins on Nov. 1.

Grand Theft Is Checked

The Circleville Police Department is investigating an apparent breaking and entering and grand theft from the Igel Construction Co. equipment on North Western Avenue that was discovered at 8:32 this morning.

According to the report, Carl Hane, manager, told Ptl. Ron Smith that when he reported to work he found that a lock was open on an equipment trailer. Upon checking inside, he discovered that a power generator and a gas powered saw were both missing. The missing items are valued at $925.

OSP Junior Troopers Slated

Lieutenant D. S. Kohn, commander of the Circleville Post of the Ohio State Highway Patrol, today announced the continuation of the Junior Trooper Program which was very successful during the spring and early summer months. The first session will be held on Saturday, October 8, 1977.

The Junior Trooper Program is for children aged 6-12 years and will consist of a series of safety sessions to be conducted at Circleville Post. All aspects of safety including bicycle riding, school bus behavior, pedestrian movements, and support of traffic safety will be covered.

"Our previous Junior program met with great success according to comments received from the children and parents which indicated much was learned from our trooper's efforts," Lt. Kohn said. "Ohio's future safety record depends on how well we have trained our children to be safety conscious. For this reason we want to assist parents in teaching their children proper safety habits."

Troopers from the Circleville Patrol Post will present the Junior Trooper program and distribute specially prepared pamphlets, coloring books, and identification cards.

Enrollment in the program is on a reservation basis. Parents of children who are interested in becoming a Junior Trooper are requested to call the local Patrol Post, telephone number 983-2538 to enroll their children and obtain the times and dates of the sessions.

FRYER WEEK!

It's the Pick of the Flock! We're selling over a quarter of a million pounds during...

Strictly Grade "A" Knife cut, fresh chilled and open dated for freshness.

Tyson Chicken is Chill Packed... Never Frozen!

A lot of chicken is packed in ice. This keeps it fresh, but tends to get it soggy and waterlogged. On the other hand, shipping chickens frozen increases the risk of premature thawing. We eliminate both problems by packing and shipping Tyson Chicken direct to your store at 28° F. That's freezing to people, but not to birds. It's the optimum temperature that keeps them fresh, flavorful and firm to the touch. Ready to cook and serve, or safely freeze at home for future use.
